NAZIS SHOCK EUROPE WITH SOVIET PACT

Hitler's Victory; Europe's Catastrophe

Held in Deaths

SPINAL INJURIES FATAL TO DIVER

Nelson A. Valentine Dies In Hospital, Following Scippo Accident

Spinal injuries caused by a dive into shallow water in Scippo creek Sunday afternoon killed Nelson Allen Valentine, 26, of Abernethy avenue, at 145 a. m. Tuesday. Mr. Valentine died in Berger hospital after being admitted about seven hours earlier.

Mr. Valentine was injured about 4:30 o'clock Sunday when he dove from a tree into the creek. He and four companions, Roy Brown, 528 E. Union street, and James Williams, Clarence Minick and Henry Shaw, all of Clarksburg, were swimming near the Monteleus home along the Kingston pike. Mr. Valentine was taken to the hospital for treatment Sunday night, then returned to his home. He was returned to the hospital Monday night when his condition became worse. The lower part of his body was paralyzed after the accident.

Second Scippo Victim

He is the second victim of a diving accident in Scippo creek. James M. Trimble, 19, was fatally injured in June, 1921 when he dove into the creek at almost the same place where Mr. Valentine was hurt.

Mr. Valentine was born in Circleville July 27, 1913, a son of Benjamin and Maude Stakley Valentine. He was married Jan. 6, 1934 in Circleville to Louise Marie Williams. Surviving are his parents, his widow, and three children, Austin Allen, George Edward and Roy Eugene; a sister, Mrs. Walter Temple, of Pickaway township, and three brothers, Roy and Pearl, of Circleville, and George, of Athens.

Funeral Monday

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the home with the Rev. Charles Essick officiating. Burial will be in Morris church cemetery in charge of M. S. Rinehart.

SOVIET PLACED IN JUDAS ROLE BY STATESMEN

Pact Of Nazis-Russians Believed To Spell End Of Polish Power

CONTINENT IS SHOCKED

Adolf's Military Strength Doubled; Only West May Worry Fuehrer

By H. R. Knickerbocker
PARIS, Aug. 22 — Chancellor Hitler's military power has been doubled overnight.

Rid of Russia in the East, today he has to consider a real war only on one front—the West.

He forthwith will apply Germany's vast menace. If that proves of no avail, he will throw terrific force against Poland for a speedy and easy victory, while the allies of the "peace front," blown up by the hand of a traitor within, will face either humiliation and ultimate submission, or a long war and possible defeat.

Hitler's greatest diplomatic victory is Europe's greatest catastrophe. This was the first shocked, hysterical reaction on the continent today to the German announcement that red and brown Bolshevism were about to join hands—that Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop of Germany was flying to Moscow to complete a non-aggression agreement between Hitler and Stalin.

Whatever may be the ultimate consequences, nothing can exaggerate the sensational effect of the Berlin announcement on every category of observer.

Churchill Recalled

"I don't believe it," was the exclamation that rang through chancelleries, in the newspapers, and in homes throughout Europe as thousands of telephone calls brought the news to men unwilling to believe that the event which Winston Churchill once called "the ultimate catastrophe" had really happened.

It was small consolation to the little group of persistent pessimists who had foreseen its possibility, now to realize that if the worst interpretation of the German announcement proves true, it may justify the gloomiest predictions of the modern world's most melancholy Jeremiahs.

This, however, is not yet certain. All that is known is that it is at best a disaster to the allied peace front—but what the dimensions of the disaster are will not be known until the German announcement is confirmed. (Continued on Page Six)

EIGHTH GRADE PUPIL VICTIM OF GUN WOUND

AKRON, Aug. 22—A shooting accident today had cost the life of 14-year-old Robert Watson, eighth grade pupil at Akron's McEbright school.

Watson was shot in the eye when a small rifle held by a 15-year-old friend accidentally discharged. The boys had been close friends for nine years.

The shooting occurred in the attic of the 15-year-old boy's home. His father, a Summit county sheriff, gave him the rifle recently.

ANNENBERG, SIX AIDES NAMED IN NEW CHARGE

CHICAGO, Aug. 22—Moses L. Annenberg and six business associates were named in a second indictment returned today by the federal grand jury charging them with an attempt to evade income taxes amounting to $137,000.

Annenberg, publisher of a Philadelphia newspaper and owner of numerous racing news services and publications, was indicted with his son and two associates ten days ago on charges of evading more than $5,000,000 in income taxes, interest and penalties.

As War Clouds Gathered in Europe

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
Rushing to make the most of the few days of certain peace which it was generally believed resulted from announcement of the forthcoming German-Soviet non-aggression pact, European capitals today frantically took counsel as Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop of Germany prepared to reach Moscow tomorrow to conclude the pact. Developments:

BERLIN—Polish border guards twice fired on Germans, but Germans, exulting over the diplomatic coup, denied any immediate stroke against Poland was planned. German military circles continued welding an iron ring around Poland, convinced that any fight would be a walk-over. Under the altered set-up, it was believed, Britain and France will not fight for Poland.

LONDON—Germany was said to have 2,000,000 men mobilized for possible quick action, although as the bewildered British cabinet met, it was conceded that hostilities were not immediately in prospect. Soviet quarters believed Anglo-French-Soviet general staff talks in Moscow could be continued.

WARSAW—Poland stood immovable on the attitude: "Poland will fight for the political independence of Danzig" whether the democracies aid or not.

MOSCOW—Observers attached importance to the possible fate of the Anglo-French-Soviet military-naval conversations.

ROME—Italy hailed the Moscow-Berlin pact, and warned France and Britain to stop supporting Poland.

PARIS—France's cabinet today was expected to order the military mission home from Moscow and increase military precautions.

TOKYO—Authorities said Nippon would not swerve from her task of creating a "new order" in East Asia.

BRUSSELS—Delegates of eight minor nations will meet tomorrow to protect their neutrality.

JAPS FEAR OWN NAZI PACT DEAD

New Situation Faced In Far East By Tokyo; Officials In Long Conference

TOKYO, Aug. 22—Obviously taken by surprise, Japanese government quarters admitted today that the decision to negotiate a Russo-German non-aggression pact has faced Japan with an entirely new situation.

Nevertheless, officials said Japan will pursue her course of establishing a "new order" in East Asia, and claimed that present relations with Germany and Italy—signatories with Japan of the anti-Communist pact—would be maintained.

As soon as official dispatches from Berlin and Moscow reached Tokyo, advising the government of the Russo-German move, Hachiro Arita, foreign minister, called on Premier Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma for a lengthy conference.

It was reported they discussed fully measures to be taken by Japan to meet the new situation, which some authoritative circles in Tokyo believe has rendered the anti-Communist pact worthless.

PETITION TO PUT 15 ON CHARTER BOARD ISSUED

Petitions for the nomination of 15 men on a commission to frame a charter, if the proposal for a city manager form of government is approved at the November election, were put in circulation Tuesday.

Signatures for the petition were obtained at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday noon. Voters at the November election will ballot on the question of a charter form of government and at the same time vote on the commission. If the issue passes, the commission will frame a charter that will be submitted to voters at a later date.

Those suggested by the Chamber of Commerce for the commission are Harry W. Heffner, Clarence Wolf, Clayton G. Chalfin, W. E. Wallace, R. L. Brehrer, Ben H. Gordon, Earl W. Lutz, Paul Johnson, Ray W. Davis, William Justus Mack Parrett, Jr., Frank A. Lynch, William Goeller, W. L. Stambaugh and Clarence W. Helvering.

Ray W. Davis has replaced Dr. G. D. Phillips on the original list. Dr. Phillips asked that his name be withdrawn due to the candidacy for reelection on the Circleville board of education.

One percent of the total vote at the last election, or about 35 names, are needed on the petition.

TARLTON GIRL ESCAPES OHIO INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Miss Nellie Poling, 16, of Tarlton, is one of three girls who escaped Sunday from the Delaware industrial school for girls, county officers were notified Tuesday.

Others who escaped were Wanda Applegarth, 13, of Steubenville, and Hattie Reinsner, 17, of Greenwich, Huron county.

The Poling girl escaped once before and was captured in Toledo.

GOTHAM STOCK MARKET SHOWS NERVOUSNESS

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—The New York stock market opened on a hesitant and confused note today with gains and losses about equally divided as Wall Street—in common with Downing Street and the Quai d'Orsay sought accurate evaluation of the Russo-German non-aggression agreement's effect on world commerce.

LEGION SESSION READY TO END AFTER PARADE

AKRON, Aug. 22—Final business sessions of the 21st annual convention of the Ohio department of the American Legion were held in Akron today.

The business sessions were an anticlimax, for the Legion's big spectacle, a parade in which 20,000 took part, was held late yesterday, choking Akron's downtown streets with an estimated 200,000 spectators and bringing business to a standstill for almost three hours.

The parade was escorted by Akron and Summit county motorcycle police, state highway patrolmen led by Col. Lynn Black, Akron units of the National Guard and Cleveland mounted police.

Marching on foot in the parade were Gov. John W. Bricker, Ohio's first legionnaire governor, Mayor Lee D. Schroy and Department Commander Eli A. Jensen of Springfield. The mounted staff was led by Parade Marshal James T. Flower and General Charles Dick.

Greatest applause for the drum and bugle corps, military and swing bands, mounted and marching units, was reserved for the crack Massillon drum and bugle corps, winners of the state competition for the second time in a row.

Included in the parade were units of the ladies' auxiliary, Sons of the Legion and junior auxiliary. Many posts were represented by 40 and 50 box cars, while others sent "one-man parades" or novelty units.

BRICKER LIKED BY REPUBLICANS IN PENNSYLVANIA

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 22—With national organization leaders reported to be favoring an "open" race at the Republican national convention, the names of Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio and U. S. Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts were being talked of today as the choice of the Pennsylvania organization for president in 1940.

The report was that in the event Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio was unable to obtain the presidential nomination, the Pennsylvania organization would throw its delegation to the support of Ohio's governor.

In the event the move to nominate Bricker failed and no other candidate was successful, the Pennsylvania organization would seek to put forward the name of Supreme Court Justice Roberts, a resident of Pennsylvania, it was learned.

Washington Says Situation Filled With Dynamite; President Returning

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 — A sleepless state department gravely eyeing its European cable today refused to draw hasty conclusions from the Russo-German non-aggression pact, but admitted the situation is "dynamite," with collapse of French-Anglo-Soviet attempts to fashion an impregnable "peace front" against the axis powers almost inevitable.

Beyond admitting that President Roosevelt is being kept closely informed by naval radio of the threatening European situation, high officials of the department would only say that "panic reasoning" should be avoided pending accurate appraisal of the non-aggression pact's significance.

Such appraisal, they pointed out, obviously is impossible until the Russo-German agreement is signed and its terms are published—if they are published.

In state department and diplomatic circles, however, the startling announcement that the long-time enemies—Germany and Russia—will conclude a non-aggression treaty spurred widening speculation, with various quarters privately advancing the following contentions:

ANTI-JEW MEET ON WEST COAST TOLD IN PROBE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—Henry D. Allen, 60-year-old anti-Semitic leader today testified before the Dies committee that he and German-American Bund leaders had called an "anti-Jewish" convention in 1938 in Los Angeles in an effort to establish a nation-wide organization.

Prominent in the attempt were Herman Schwinn, west coast bund "Fuehrer," and Arno Risse, Schwinn's assistant, Allen said.

"Without taking undue credit," Allen acknowledged he had written to a friend later that "the convention was the combined thought and organized by Arno Risse of the Bund and myself and we worked like dogs to have it."

GALLIA JUDGE MAY RUN FOR COURT OF APPEALS

Judge William R. White, of Gallia county, will be a candidate for election as judge of the Fourth District Court of Appeals if Judge Peter J. Blosser, incumbent, does not seek reelection. In his announcement, Judge White asserted he would withdraw should Judge Blosser become a candidate for reelection.

Judge White has had 19 years of experience on the Gallia county Common Pleas bench.

Another candidate in the field is Vermer E. Metcalf, of Marietta, formerly a "hatchet man" in the Ohio senate and now chairman of the Unemployment Commission at Columbus.

He'll See Stalin

JOACHIM Von Ribbentrop, (above), German foreign agent, was preparing Tuesday to fly to Moscow to complete a non-aggression pact that has shaken the foundations of every European capital.

32 NAMES OUT OF 214 FOUND VALID ON PENSION PLEA

COLUMBUS, Aug. 22—Only 34 of 214 signatures affixed to Bigelow pension plan petitions in Geauga county were found to be valid, Secretary of State Earl Griffith announced today.

The state's chief election official indicated that the discrepancy would be investigated. To be valid, signatures must be those of legal voters.

As Geauga and seven other county election boards reported on their check-up of petition signatures, necessary to place the "$50 at 60" pension plan before the electorate in the form of a proposed constitutional amendment in November, the percentage of invalid signatures continued at about 21 percent, it was stated.

Of 494 names in Shelby county, 479 were found valid; of 2171 in Lorain county, 1824 valid; 5080 in Montgomery county, 3132 valid; 1370 in Adams county, 815 valid; 1621 in Darke county, 1446 valid; 990 in Fayette county, 692 valid; 2076 in Mahoning county, 1633 valid.

YOUNG PREACHER ENDS OWN LIFE IN FLINT, MICH.

FLINT, Mich., Aug. 22—The Rev. James Cody, 31-year-old assistant pastor of one of Flint's largest churches, today shot and killed himself at his home.

Cody's father and brother are Presbyterian ministers in St. Louis, Mo. No reason for the suicide was given.

Cody had been assistant pastor of the Flint First Presbyterian church since his graduation from the McCormick theological seminary, Chicago, this year.

FLAMES LEVEL CLEVELAND LUMBER YARD; LOSS HIGH

CLEVELAND, Aug. 22—Firemen today continued to pour water on to the smoking embers of an $80,000 fire that destroyed a large part of a Cleveland lumber yard and an adjacent two-family residence.

The fire, starting in a manner unknown in the yard of the Vanis Builders Supply & Lumber Co., raged for two hours before eight fire companies put it under control.

Germany Sees Early End Of Danzig Crisis

Non-aggression Agreement To Be Signed This Week With Von Ribbentrop Ready To Leave Berlin For Red Capital

NEW BORDER INCIDENTS REPORTED

Hitler Proves Himself Cleverest Of All Diplomats; Anglo-French Talks With Russians To Be Concluded

BERLIN, Aug. 22—Two more Polish-German border incidents today added to Europe's fright, but in Germany a triumphant populace held to the initial belief that the Russo-German pact of non-aggression means peace for all.

Reports from Mischalkowitz, near Moravian Ostrau, said Polish customs officials fired on, but missed, two German customs officials. The Germans did not reply to the fire.

A similar incident involving shooting by Polish customs men was related from Reichswalbau. None of the Germans was wounded.

Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop was set to leave at once for Moscow, where negotiations to conclude the continent-shaking agreement are due to begin tomorrow.

Diplomatic observers agreed with the man-in-the-street that the war, towards which the crisis over Danzig has been heading for the last few days, will surely be at least postponed.

Foreign newspaper reports predicting immediate action by Germany against Poland were semi-officially styled "speculations." They probably were built on the basis of the speech by Albert Forster, Nazi leader in Danzig, saying a solution of the Danzig question was likely within a couple of days.

No information provided. No official information regarding the possible moves of the German general staff can be given out, it was explained.

At the same time, all indications are that the general staff continues its preparations to draw an iron ring about Poland's borders, and is ready for all eventualities.

While authorities insist on Germany's peaceful intentions, and refuse to give any leads or predictions, it is an open secret that German military circles consider Poland's defense forces so inferior that any possible war is likely to result only in a brief drama—merely a walk-over—with the grace granted to Poland varying between a week or a month.

The Polish army is considered poorly equipped, while the centers of its armament industries are almost within reach of German heavy guns—to say nothing of Germany's superior air force—compared to which Poland has only an estimated 1,200 war planes.

In the event of war, it is expected also, the Corridor would be lost to Poland almost immediately, including Poland's port of Gdynia. (A Reuters dispatch to London, however, quoted Marshal Hermann (Continued on Page Six)

NEW EQUIPMENT PUT IN OPERATION BY PURINA

Feed mixing equipment, transferred to the new building at the Ralston-Purina plant, S. Court street, and new boilers, recently installed, were put in operation Tuesday. Extensive improvements and an expansion program have been under way at the plant this year.

Officials announced Tuesday that 210 new dust proof lights have been installed in the plant.

Work on the stack at the Continer Corporation delayed reopening of the plant from 7 a. m. until 11 p. m. Monday. The stack is 170 feet high, being extended from 145 feet.

PARIS-SUMMONS ARMY RESERVES

Half Million Called For Duty; Warsaw Scoffs At Surrender To Nazis

PARIS, Aug. 22 — Between 500,000 and 600,000 French army reservists today were called to the colors to augment existing forces now under arms.

It was expected that additional reservists would be called during the day.

The first train laden with reservists steamed out of the Gare De L'Est at 1:45 p. m. as troops slowly filled the station.

Departure of the reservists from the eastern station of Paris indicated that they were being moved as reinforcements to the German frontier.

WARSAW, Aug. 22—Still banking on British and French support, Poland refused to budge an inch today from her position that German aggression against Poland in Danzig or elsewhere would mean fight.

Germany is making a serious mistake if she thinks the forthcoming Moscow-Berlin pact means the end of all possibility of Polish resistance, it was asserted in Warsaw.

TWO MORE MAKE GETAWAY FROM OHIO FARM JAIL

LONDON, O., Aug. 22 — Two convicts, the latest to escape from the London Prison Farm, were believed surrounded in a corn field near the institution at noon today.

State highway patrolmen, Madison county sheriff's deputies and prison farm guards had the field surrounded but feared the pair might escape if they closed in. Authorities explained that the corn was about nine feet tall making it impossible to see more than a few feet ahead.

The latest two to escape, bringing to a total of six the number of prisoners who have fled in the last 24 hours, were Steve Bolan, 27, sentenced from Hamilton county, and Louis Kuhn, 26, Belmont county. Both were serving life sentences on second degree murder charges.

The account of a prison farm break last night appears on Page 10.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 22—Firemen today continued to pour water on to the smoking embers of an $80,000 fire that destroyed a large part of a Cleveland lumber yard and an adjacent two-family residence.

The fire, starting in a manner unknown in the yard of the Vanis Builders Supply & Lumber Co., raged for two hours before eight fire companies put it under control.

Germany Sees Early End Of Danzig Crisis

Non-aggression Agreement To Be Signed This Week With Von Ribbentrop Ready To Leave Berlin For Red Capital

NEW BORDER INCIDENTS REPORTED

Hitler Proves Himself Cleverest Of All Diplomats; Anglo-French Talks With Russians To Be Concluded

BERLIN, Aug. 22—Two more Polish-German border incidents today added to Europe's fright, but in Germany a triumphant populace held to the initial belief that the Russo-German pact of non-aggression means peace for all.

Reports from Mischalkowitz, near Moravian Ostrau, said Polish customs officials fired on, but missed, two German customs officials. The Germans did not reply to the fire.

A similar incident involving shooting by Polish customs men was related from Reichswalbau. None of the Germans was wounded.

Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop was set to leave at once for Moscow, where negotiations to conclude the continent-shaking agreement are due to begin tomorrow.

Diplomatic observers agreed with the man-in-the-street that the war, towards which the crisis over Danzig has been heading for the last few days, will surely be at least postponed.

Foreign newspaper reports predicting immediate action by Germany against Poland were semi-officially styled "speculations." They probably were built on the basis of the speech by Albert Forster, Nazi leader in Danzig, saying a solution of the Danzig question was likely within a couple of days.

No official information regarding the possible moves of the German general staff can be given out, it was explained.

At the same time, all indications are that the general staff continues its preparations to draw an iron ring about Poland's borders, and is ready for all eventualities.

While authorities insist on Germany's peaceful intentions, and refuse to give any leads or predictions, it is an open secret that German military circles consider Poland's defense forces so inferior that any possible war is likely to result only in a brief drama—merely a walk-over—with the grace granted to Poland varying between a week or a month.

The Polish army is considered poorly equipped, while the centers of its armament industries are almost within reach of German heavy guns—to say nothing of Germany's superior air force—compared to which Poland has only an estimated 1,200 war planes.

In the event of war, it is expected also, the Corridor would be lost to Poland almost immediately, including Poland's port of Gdynia.

YOUNG PREACHER ENDS OWN LIFE IN FLINT, MICH.

FLINT, Mich., Aug. 22—The Rev. James Cody, 31-year-old assistant pastor of one of Flint's largest churches, today shot and killed himself at his home.

Cody's father and brother are Presbyterian ministers in St. Louis, Mo. No reason for the suicide was given.

Cody had been assistant pastor of the Flint First Presbyterian church since his graduation from the McCormick theological seminary, Chicago, this year.

FEED MIXING EQUIPMENT PUT IN OPERATION BY PURINA

Feed mixing equipment, transferred to the new building at the Ralston-Purina plant, S. Court street, and new boilers, recently installed, were put in operation Tuesday. Extensive improvements and an expansion program have been under way at the plant this year.

Officials announced Tuesday that 210 new dust proof lights have been installed in the plant.

Work on the stack at the Continental Corporation delayed reopening of the plant from 7 a. m. until 11 p. m. Monday. The stack is 170 feet high, being extended from 145 feet.

PARIS-SUMMONS ARMY RESERVES

Half Million Called For Duty; Warsaw Scoffs At Surrender To Nazis

PARIS, Aug. 22 — Between 500,000 and 600,000 French army reservists today were called to the colors to augment existing forces now under arms.

It was expected that additional reservists would be called during the day.

The first train laden with reservists steamed out of the Gare De L'Est at 1:45 p. m. as troops slowly filled the station.

Departure of the reservists from the eastern station of Paris indicated that they were being moved as reinforcements to the German frontier.

WARSAW, Aug. 22—Still banking on British and French support, Poland refused to budge an inch today from her position that German aggression against Poland in Danzig or elsewhere would mean fight.

Germany is making a serious mistake if she thinks the forthcoming Moscow-Berlin pact means the end of all possibility of Polish resistance, it was asserted in Warsaw.

TWO MORE MAKE GETAWAY FROM OHIO FARM JAIL

LONDON, O., Aug. 22 — Two convicts, the latest to escape from the London Prison Farm, were believed surrounded in a corn field near the institution at noon today.

State highway patrolmen, Madison county sheriff's deputies and prison farm guards had the field surrounded but feared the pair might escape if they closed in. Authorities explained that the corn was about nine feet tall making it impossible to see more than a few feet ahead.

The latest two to escape, bringing to a total of six the number of prisoners who have fled in the last 24 hours, were Steve Bolan, 27, sentenced from Hamilton county, and Louis Kuhen, 26, Belmont county. Both were serving life sentences on second degree murder charges.

The account of a prison farm break last night appears on Page 10.

LANCASTER BANKER UP FOR PAROLE HEARING

LANCASTER, Aug. 22—Harry C. Jordan, defaulting cashier of the defunct Security Savings Co., will be eligible for a parole hearing Oct. 1. He is serving a term of one to 20 years in Ohio penitentiary. He was sentenced Nov. 30, 1938.

Jordan had served a sentence in the penitentiary on a forgery charge from 1931 until May, 1938. After his release on that sentence he was rearrested on one of 16 indictments against him. After being convicted by a jury he was again sentenced to the institution.

What action will be taken against Jordan will not be determined until the parole board passes on his request for freedom. If he is successful, it is probable that his arrest will be ordered and another trial held.

PRISON INMATE SUEDE Ruth Eisnaugle, E. Main street, a minor, filed suit through her father, Asa McDonald, asking a divorce from Clarence Eisnaugle, now in the Mansfield reformatory. The action charges neglect of duty. They were married May 13, 1937 in Ironton and have no children.

LOANS ON GRAIN NEEDS TAKEN AT AGENT'S OFFICE

Applications for 1939 emergency winter grain loans are being received by Clarence Fealy, field supervisor of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration. The applications are being taken at the office of the county farm agent.

These loans will be made only to farmers who cannot obtain credit from any other source, as provided by regulations issued by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1939 winter grain crops and in no instance may exceed $400.00.

Farmers are not eligible for these loans if they can borrow from an individual, production credit association, bank, or other concern. Emergency crop loans will not be made by the Farm Credit Administration to standard rehabilitation clients of the Resettlement Administration whose current needs are provided for by Resettlement.

As in the past, the security for these loans will consist of a first lien on the crop financed. Landlords, or others having an interest in the crops will be required to waive their claims in favor of the lien to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration until the loan is repaid.

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

THE BATTLE LINES TAKE FORM

Sam Rayburn has declared for John Garner. Standing by itself this statement may appear of only moderate significance. But it does not stand by itself. The relationship between the two men makes it important. And the sequence of recent events makes it more important.

John Garner came to Washington in 1903, Sam Rayburn ten years later, in 1913. That was 26 years ago, and during that time these men have been intimate personal and political friends. Seven years ago, in 1932, Mr. Garner was a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. Mr. Rayburn was his campaign manager. Since then Mr. Garner has been vice president; Mr. Rayburn, chairman of a powerful committee, and a highly respected Democratic floor leader.

Besides, they are both Texans, and Jeffersonian Democrats. Together they know and know intimately every important Democratic in the land.

Now for the sequence of events. John Lewis had only recently made a violent attack on Garner. Congress had just adjourned. The Hatch bill had become law. Mr. Roosevelt had sent a message to the young Democrats at Pittsburgh saying that his "self respect" would make it impossible for him to support a "conservative candidate". How to fathom his mind on this is past finding out, in view of the fact that Mr. Roosevelt in a very recent speech before the retail merchants described himself as a simon pure "conservative".

Nevertheless, he Pittsburgh letter was generally interpreted as another attack on Mr. Garner. But without waiting for the smoke to clear, Sam Rayburn announces that he is for Garner. He does so flatly. There are not ifs, but nor weasel words of any description. He does not say that he is for John Garner—Garner of Texas, meaning Vice President Garner. Moreover, he describes his candidate as a "liberal", which, in my judgment, he truly is.

Now all this, and more that I have been told by some of Mr. Garner's closest friends, leads me to this conclusion. Mr. Garner is and will from now on be an active candidate for the nomination. For weeks I have seen editorial comment to the effect that Mr. Garner really does not seek the nomination. I have not agreed with this comment and today I am more convinced than ever that it is wholly wrong.

It is to be supposed, for example, that Mr. Rayburn did not consult with Mr. Garner before he made his statement? Nor that the whole situation was not canvassed by the two men? Suppose Mr. Roosevelt later does announce that he will seek a third term. Did Mr. Rayburn not think of that? And if that happens, will Rayburn then desert Garner? I think not.

Rayburn will still be for Garner.

The declaration seems of first importance, therefore, as an index of a decision Mr. Garner has definitely formed. He could not let his old friend saw off a White House limb unless he meant business.

Now for the sequence. Mr. Rayburn will still be Democratic floor leader in the next session of Congress. Suppose the next session develops into a dog fight between Roosevelt and John Lewis against Garner. What then? Mr. Rayburn, as floor leader, is not likely to let the cards be played against his old time friend. And as at no time within the last two years has Mr. Roosevelt had control of Congress without Sam Rayburn's help—and often not even with it—where would he be without his help?

This seems to forecast a session that will "put the cattle out to grass", i. e., be helpful to business, recovery and reemployment. In other words, it is my guess that Mr. Garner and his friends, and not Mr. Roosevelt nor John Lewis and their non-drinking, non-poker-playing friends (if any) will run the next session. If so, look for better business—and perhaps the beginning of really good business.

Mr. Roosevelt is rapidly being brought to a great decision. He will either stand by his statement to the young Pittsburgh Democrats, and split the Democratic party on the reef of his ego, or he can do the magnanimous thing. He can bring peace to his party and healing to his country by standing aside personally and telling the party that it is greater than he, that he will honorably strive to get the convention to nominate a candidate favored by him; but that, nevertheless, he will gratefully and generously support the nominee, whoever he may be. It seems that it would be out of character for him to do this, but if he did, he would leave a larger name in history.

INDIAN VILLAGES UNDER VOLCANO, EXPERT THINKS

BERKELEY, Cal. — That a tremendous volcanic eruption, comparable to Pompeii, occurred in continental United States and perhaps buried several Indian villages in seething lava was reported today by Prof. Howel Williams, University of California volcanologist.

An examination has shown that Mount Mazama in southern Oregon, had a great eruption which blew off 6,000 feet of the mountain. This huge segment, which collapsed into the interior of the peak, formed the unplumbed crater which now is famed Crater lake, Professor Williams said. The eruption was accompanied by discharge of such great quantities of lava and pumice that the volcanic layer 60 miles from the mountain still is two to three feet thick despite the centuries of exposure to the elements, the volcanologist reported.

The possibility that human beings perished in the eruption was disclosed when a quantity of an ancient Indian race were found underneath the pumice on the bank of the Deschutes river, more than 50 miles from the crater. Eighty miles away in a similarly pumice-covered district, partly burned sage-brush bark sandals and other materials were found in a cave.

That the eruption occurred has been known for many years, but prior to discovery of the human relics it was presumed that it had occurred centuries before man kind appeared on this continent.

British Test Drug For Prevention of Panics

LONDON, Aug. 22 — A secret drug that in wartime would prevent Britain's civilian population from becoming panic-stricken, is now being tested by the British authorities.

At the moment the formula of the drug has been submitted for experimental purposes only, but it is understood that Air-raid Precautions Chief Sir John Anderson is taking a keen interest in the preparation.

Medical experts acting for the British government have suggested that the drug, which will take the form of a glandular-vitamin preparation, should be sent to Madrid and given to the war-stricken Madrilenos, whose reactions would then be studied by British medicos.

May Play Vital Role

If the issuing of this drug can be restricted to prevent overdosing it will play a valuable part in the protection of the civil population, especially women and children, it is believed.

It is stated that Sir John Anderson's department is in consultation with the Ministry of Health as to the possibility of the drug being prepared in a safe and simple capsule form.

A person in close touch with the inventor said:

"The idea of the formula is to alleviate human misery in times of great stress.

"Such a preparation in war-time would be of incalculable value."

Scientists who have been investigating the properties of this "panic pill" say that Madrid, during a bombardment, would provide ideal conditions for the experiment.

During the early 16th century 'tis said the Spanish conquerors used gold dust as salt for their meats.

LONDON, Aug. 22 — A secret drug that in wartime would prevent Britain's civilian population from becoming panic-stricken, is now being tested by the British authorities.

At the moment the formula of the drug has been submitted for experimental purposes only, but it is understood that Air-raid Precautions Chief Sir John Anderson is taking a keen interest in the preparation.

Medical experts acting for the British government have suggested that the drug, which will take the form of a glandular-vitamin preparation, should be sent to Madrid and given to the warstricken Madrillinos, whose reactions would then be studied by British medicos.

May Play Vital Role

If the issuing of this drug can be restricted to prevent overdoing it will play a valuable part in the protection of the civil population, especially women and children, it is believed.

It is stated that Sir John Anderson's department is in consultation with the Ministry of Health as to the possibility of the drug being prepared in a safe and simple capsule form.

A person in close touch with the inventor said:

"The idea of the formula is to alleviate human misery in times of great stress.

"Such a preparation in war-time would be of incalculable value."

LIBRARY TRUCK PREPARES FOR SCHOOL VISITS

Steady Increase In Use Of Service Adds Day To Weekly Tours

PROGRAM ESTABLISHED

First Trip Of Fall To Be Tuesday, Sept. 5, in South Bloomfield, Ashville

Announcement of the schedule to be followed by the book truck of the Public Library during the 1939-40 school year was made Tuesday by Daniel Pfoutz, librarian.

Due to the steady increase in book circulation during the last school year, another day each week has been added to the book truck schedule. Last year no trips were made on Monday. This year the truck will operate on Monday.

The new schedule opens Monday, Sept. 4. It is arranged on a two-week basis with stops being made at the various schools and villages every two weeks.

The first week's schedule follows: Sept. 4, Scioto township school, 9:30 to 11:30 a. m.; Monroe township school and Five Points, 1 to 4 p. m.; and Pherson village, 4:15 p. m.; Tuesday, Sept. 5, South Bloomfield school and village, 9:30 to 10:45 a. m.; Ashville village, 11 a. m. to 1:30 p. m.; and Ashville school, 2 to 4 p. m.; Wednesday, Sept. 6, Walnut township school, 9:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.; Washington township school, 2 to 3:30 p. m.; Thursday, Sept. 7, Wayne township school, 9:30 to 11 a. m.; Duval school and village, 12:30 to 2 p. m.; and Madison township school, 2:30 to 4 p. m.; Friday, Sept. 8, Pickaway township school, 9:30 to 11:30 a. m.; Saltcreek township school, 1 to 2:30 p. m.; Tarlton school, 3 to 4 p. m.; and Tarlton village, 4 to 5 p. m.

The second week's schedule includes: Monday, Sept. 11, Atlanta village and Perry township school, 9:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.; Tuesday, Sept. 12, New Holland grade school, 9:30 to 11:30 a. m.; New Holland village, 12:30 to 2 p. m.; and New Holland high school, 2 to 3:30 p. m.; Wednesday, Sept. 13, Jackson township school, 9:15 to 11:30 a. m.; Deer creek township school and Williamsport village, 12:30 to 3:30 p. m.; Thursday, Sept. 14, Muhlenberg township school, 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.; Darby township school, 11 a. m. to 2:30 p. m.; Derby village, 3 to 3:30 p. m.; and Darbyville, 3:45 to 4:15 p. m.; Friday, Sept. 15, State farm at Orient, 10 to 11:30 a. m.; Orient village, 11:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.; Orient school, 1:30 to 2 p. m.; and Commercial Point village, 2:15 to 3:30 p. m.

Mr. Pfoutz explained that the trip on Sept. 4 will be delayed until two weeks later because that date is Labor Day.

Hiker Likes Milk

ROY MACK, a former professional football player, is hiking from New York to San Francisco, Cal., subsisting solely on milk. In Oklahoma City, Okla., Mack admitted he had lost 10 pounds in weight but insists his weight would have decreased anyway, due to his long hike. Mack required 105 days to reach Oklahoma City and hopes to enter San Francisco on Nov. 16.

EDUCATORS HIRE ATTORNEYS FOR DISTRICT FIGHT

Attys. Ray W. Davis and E. L. Crist were employed by the county board of education Monday night to represent the board in the Common Pleas court action filed recently by the Muhlenberg township board of education to prevent the transfer of Muhlenberg school district to Monroe school district.

The Muhlenberg township board of education obtained a temporary injunction against the transfer and asked it be made permanent after a hearing. The county board of education had transferred the district to Monroe township and recommended the school in Darbyville be continued as a grade school.

The attorneys employed by the county board were requested to urge a hearing on the case as soon as possible so some definite plans may be worked out for the opening of school on Sept. 5. No teachers have been employed for Muhlenberg township school.

COOKING DEMONSTRATION

New methods of canning fruits and vegetables and many helpful hints in the art of canning will be given by Miss Dorothy Duncan, Gasco home service representative, who will conduct an oven canning demonstration at the Gas Co. office, N. Court street, Tuesday, Aug. 29, at 2 p. m. The foods prepared will be given away at the close of the demonstration.

G-MEN IN LOUISIANA

John Rogge, energetic young Assistant Attorney General, is working hard to obtain convictions of the Louisiana political gag, but some of the G-men helping him in New Orleans are a little worried that certain slick politicians may be giving him the run-around.

What upsets the G-men is Rogge's enthusiastic naivete. The other day when he received three bullets and a threatening letter, Rogge immediately called in newspapermen and rushed into print. Afterward, when he asked the G-men to investigate, they refused. They pointed out that the letters already had been given to the press and that the senders, if bonafide, would be on their guard. Also the fingerprints of newspapermen would be on the papers. Moreover, there is some suspicion that the threats were sent by New Orleans citizens actually rooting for Rogge's success but anxious to spur him on to greater labor.

NOTE—Honest, sincere, hard-hitting, Rogge has an excellent record so far, but is compared by a close friend to a bull: "The reason bull-fighters always kill bulls," remarked a friend, "is that bulls always charge in a straight line. Rogge doesn't know how to vary his attack, and someday one of these Louisiana politicians will stick a knife between the shoulders of his grand jury indictments."

WORSE WAR CLOUDS

Long distance diagnosing of the European situation always is difficult, but through all of the cables coming from U. S. officials abroad runs a note of increasing pessimism.

Ever since August 15, Hitler has had his troops mobilized opposite Poland's most vulnerable positions and ready to strike. All Hitler has to do is press a button. The troops would attack instantly.

Some observers believe Hitler will push that button almost immediately. Some believe he will wait longer. All agree that he is trying to intimidate Europe, thus shake the Polish plums into his lap without war. The suspense in Europe is nerve-racking.

But most observers also agree that this time, France and Britain are fully prepared to fight, will indulge in no Munich surrender.

So Hitler counting on an Allied surrender, and the Allies de-

AUTO WITH OHIO PLATES HUNTED IN $10,000 THEFT

BELVIDERE, Ill., Aug. 22—Authorities today hunted two men and a girl in an automobile bearing Ohio license plates on the complaint of Harry S. Fisher, Valparaiso, Ind., metal dealer, that the trio robbed him of $10,000 in cash last night.

According to Fisher, one of the men, who identified himself as Ben Wolf of Cleveland, telephoned him at Valparaiso last week and said he had two cars of metal for cash sale in Belvidere.

Fisher by agreement met the man in Rockford, Ill., yesterday, and there was introduced to a blond woman supposed to be Mrs. Wolf, and a man Wolf said was his brother-in-law.

Last night, Fisher told police, he and the Wolfs went for an auto ride and two miles beyond Belvidere the couple produced revolvers and robbed him of his money. In a few moments the "brother-in-law" drove up in an auto with Ohio plates and Wolf and the woman left with him, Fisher reported.

COUSIN OF CIRCLEVILLE WOMEN DIES IN ENGLAND

Ralph Gordon of Athens, a cousin of Mrs. W. A. Thomas and Mrs. Bryan Custer of W. Franklin street, died suddenly Thursday, Aug. 17, in London, England, after an attack of pneumonia. His body was cremated Saturday, Aug. 19. Mrs. Gordon, who had joined him in London early in June, returns to the United States Thursday on the S. S. Normandie.

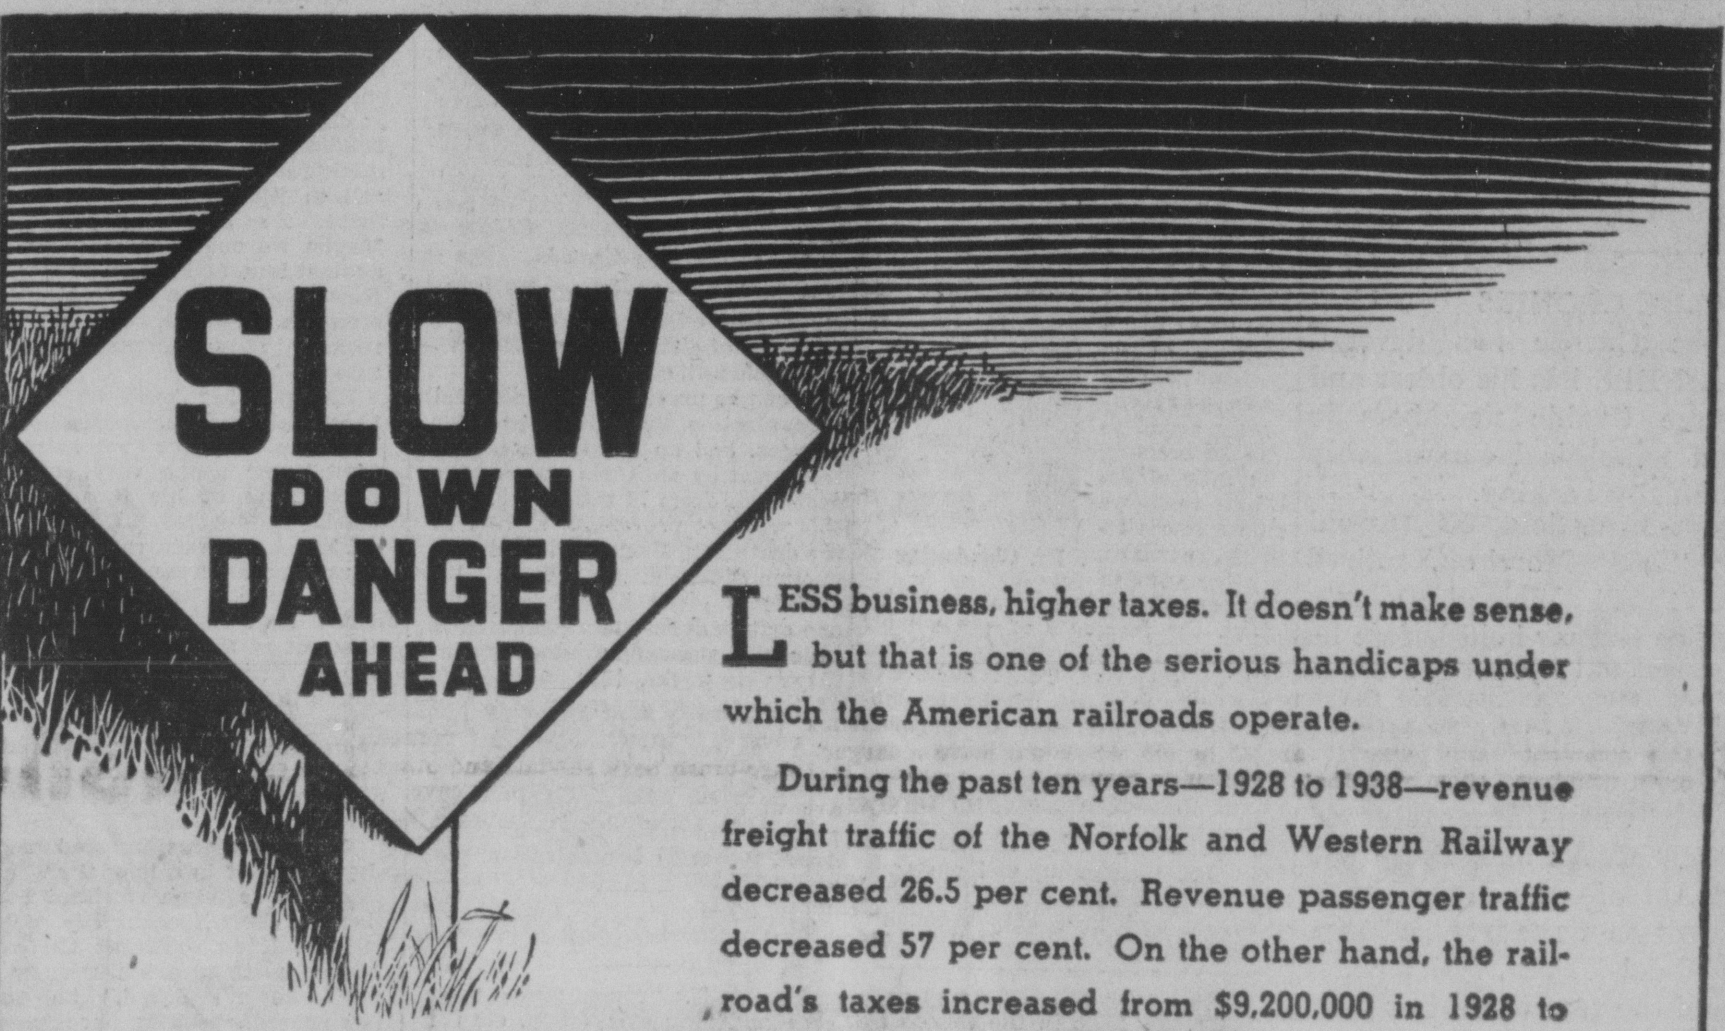

Mr. Gordon was foreign representative of the International Harvester Co. During the last two years, he had been stationed in Lima, Peru, the Dutch East Indies and Africa. He had been transferred to London the first of June.

MILD SCURVY PREVALENT

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Not realizing it, thousands of persons may be suffering from a mild form of scurvy, believes Dr. Lawrence E. Deterick, research scientist at the University of California at Los Angeles. Scurvy, a disease that affected men in the days of sailing ships, when voyages were long and no fresh foodstuffs were provided, in its advanced stages shows itself in the form of aching joints, bleeding gums, ulcers and loose teeth.

LESS business, higher taxes. It doesn't make sense, but that is one of the serious handicaps under which the American railroads operate.

During the past ten years—1928 to 1938—revenue freight traffic of the Norfolk and Western Railway decreased 26.5 per cent. Revenue passenger traffic decreased 57 per cent. On the other hand, the railroad's taxes increased from $9,200,000 in 1928 to $11,485,000 in 1938, or nearly 25 per cent.

Any way you figure it, you get the same answer—constantly increasing taxes. For example:

Out of every $100 taken in, the N. & W. paid the tax collectors	$ 8.60 in 1928 14.88 in 1938
For every person it employed, the N. & W. paid the tax collectors	$ 333.68 in 1928 658.47 in 1938
For every carload of freight originating on its line, the N. & W. paid the tax collectors	$ 11.72 in 1928 18.08 in 1938
For every dollar paid in dividends to its stockholders, the N. & W. paid the tax collectors	62 cents in 1928 77 cents in 1938
To earn enough revenue to pay its taxes, the N. & W. worked	31.4 days in 1928 54.3 days in 1938

The results of such a taxing policy applied to the railroads, and to the nation's industry as a whole, are inevitable—drastic decreases in purchasing power, production and employment. These facts and figures strikingly demonstrate the vital necessity for curtailing Government expenditures and the consistent application of sane economy in Government. Without economy in Government there can be no permanent national prosperity.

The Norfolk and Western and the other railroads of the nation do not protest the payment of their proper and equitable share of taxes. As good citizens, they are glad to contribute to public education and to the orderly function of Government by payment of taxes. But, when the cost of Government reaches the point where taxes take more and more of the national income, while that income declines, then it is time to slow down. For there is danger ahead.

a barb in the very title. He calls it "The Fate of Homo Sapiens." Obviously he thinks we're not very sapient. In plain American, he would call us "saps."

Humanity, he says, "which began in a cave, will end in the disease-soaked ruins of a slum." Plainly he thinks modern man with all his scientific knowledge and technical skill, is rushing to destruction through militarism and bad economics.

Science and invention, he finds, have changed our environment but not our natures. The disruptive driving force of unemployed young men "probably will shatter human life altogether under the new conditions." Our present "mental organization" is unable to control the situation.

If there is hope anywhere, he thinks, it is in America. Here is a challenge for our nation to pull itself together and go forward with a constructive program, before our youth gets out of hand here as it has done in Germany and various other countries.

"IDEAL FLOWER"

IF David Burpee of California has really created the "ideal American flower" it is at least as important as a lot of other things we fuss about.

The Creator usually takes a lot of time for such a job, but Mr. Burpee, a cousin of the late Luther Burbank, was in a hurry.
He started this quest 46 years ago, and has been searching and experimenting ever since. He began to develop a yellow sweet pea, but gave that up after 30 years' work, and turned to the production of a flower that would be generally popular and stand the heat and cold of all parts of the United States. He tried the marigold, but finally despaired of that because he couldn't get rid of the unpleasant odor.
He learned of an odorless marigold in China, and worked with that, but failed.
He finally succeeded by crossing a French marigold with an African variety.
In this experiment he planted five acres of the two types in alternate rows and turned loose 600,000 bees to take care of the cross-fertilization.

Such achievements are interesting at a time when so much human effort is being devoted to war. Flowers may be as important as guns and air bombs.

In spite of the progress of human knowledge, nobody seems to know how to spell buses or busses, as the case may be, although we don't have any fuss about fuses or fusses.

HITLER, RIBBENTROP ABUSE CIANO

WASHINGTON—The story of what happened during the session between Hitler, his Foreign Minister, von Ribbentrop, and the Italian Foreign Minister, Count Ciano, has just reached official sources and is important. The report comes from Italian circles which were extremely wrothy over the way Mussolini's son-in-law was treated.

During the private audience at Berchtesgaden, both Hitler and von Ribbentrop berated Ciano, shouted, nagged and scolded him like a schoolboy.

Count Ciano did his best to urge a cautious policy toward Poland and Danzig. He made it absolutely clear that Italy did not want war, did not even want to risk war.
And it was this which brought the storm of abuse upon his head.

More important than this personal altercation, of course, is the fact that no high-ups in the Italian Government want war. This includes the King, the Crown Prince, General Badoglio, hero of Ethiopia, and General Balbo, who flew an air squadron to Chicago and now is Governor of Libya.

However, it looks as if Italy would have to fight. Chief factor is the presence of German officers all through the Italian army. Even top sergeants have been placed by the German high command in key Italian army posts. Apparently the Nazis feared the loyalty of their allies long ago. But today they need not fear, for the Italians are hog-tied by their own axis.

UVALDE CRONIES

Vice President Garner has devoted friends on Capitol Hill, but his oldest and dearest are three Uvalde neighbors in whose quiet and unpolitical comradeship he is now delightfully basking.

They are Ross Brumfield, 58-year-old garage owner; "Bee" Morrison, retired rancher; and "Pete" Wolcott, county judge, which office Garner held before he began his congressional career 41 years ago.

Of the three, Brumfield is the closest to Garner. The two have been intimates for nearly 30 years, and when Garner returned to his home a few weeks ago, Brumfield met him in San Antonio and drove him to Uvalde. The two men make frequent trips in Garner's old Model-T Ford, with a canoe lashed on top and the rear of the car piled high with rods, guns and cooking gear.

Garner always does the cooking, and is very proud of it. He claims he can make the best coffee and flap-jacks in Texas.

Brumfield is the only one who calls Garner "Johnny"—except Mrs. Garner, who does so only in private. When others are present she calls her husband "Mister Garner." Other Uvalde neighbors call him
"John," while only his congressional friends say "Jack."

Brumfield knows little about politics and is not interested. The two men talk chiefly about local affairs, neighbors, crops, fishing, hunting and business deals —particularly about their respective skill as anglers and huntsmen.

"Johnny is a fair cook," says Brumfield, "but not as good as he says he is.
And he is a total loss as a shot. I'm the

Prevent Diphtheria With Immunization

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

EVERY YEAR, as the time for entering school approaches, it becomes the duty and the privilege of this column to advise of the common contagious diseases of childhood, and to give its most conscientious advice to parents concerning immunization and protection against them.

This year we are particularly proud to do so because, in spite of the fact that we (I lamentably, perhaps, in the eyes of Dictators) are free from regimentation, the incidence of preventable diseases in this country is lower than it ever was. This is due not to orders from above, but from voluntary and intelligent co-operation among the whole population, and we are proud to contrast this record with that of a modern scientific totalitarian state.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The comparison centers on diphtheria. In 1938, in the Democracy of the United States, there were 473 deaths from diphtheria. In Germany there were 149,429 deaths from diphtheria.

More Instructive

The check on comparative incidence is even more instructive. In 1933 the United States had 861 deaths from diphtheria, while Germany had 77,340. In the six years of Hitler's regime the death rate from diphtheria has increased 100 per cent; in the United States in the same period it has decreased 100 per cent.

According to German language papers, the increase in Germany is due to: (1) unhygienic crowding of young people in youth movement camps, designed to show how impervious to disease Germans naturally are; (2) scanty public distribution of medicine and means of disease prevention; (3) exile of doctors, Jewish and non-Jewish.

How has North America (while I have not the exact statistics from Canada, I know that its record is essentially the same as the United States) been able to reduce its diphtheria mortality almost to the vanishing point? In 1938, 24 American cities had not a single death from diphtheria.

It is a long story—a story of the deliberate application of intelligence and perseverance to a human situation—but essentially it comes down to this:
Diphtheria affects children; most cases occur from the ages of two to ten.

Occurs in Crowds

It is a "neighborly disease"; it occurs where there is crowding and mingling of children from different households—i. e., school.

It can be prevented by individual immunization. Quarantine, tried for decades, had no effect. Successful treatment by antitoxin reduced the death rate from 74 ratio to 15. But this was not prevention and at 15 the death rate stuck until the introduction of toxoid.

This is given hypodermically—one or two doses—to a child over a year old, and will produce immunity in six weeks. It is recommended that this be repeated at school age. This immunity lasts a lifetime. Parents of children entering school for the first time this fall are urgently recommended to cooperate with authorities in bringing about universal immunization.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. A. T.: "Please advise what care and materials (soap, etc.) I should use in caring for baby's diapers. I have had no previous experience and have heard much from my friends about their being a source of discomfort."

Answer: We wrote about diaper rash in this column some time ago.
It is mostly due to lack of proper cleansing of the diapers. But for the baby's comfort, other things are important. The material of the diaper should be bleached cottonwool, silk and rayon absorb water poorly. The perfect diaper should be knitted—the disadvantage is the cost. Cleaning diapers consists first in scraping off any excreta into the toilet. Then rinse the diaper and soak at least overnight. Washing should be by a good soap, free from alkali. Rinse in four or five changes of water.

Phantom Ranch

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS

LORENA HAMILTON has come to Arizona to visit her uncle
GEORGE BRAZEE, owner of Phantom ranch, whose leading cowboys are JERRY DALE, college-bred newcomer, who is fascinated by Lorena, and SHOT ROGERS, who finds himself in love with her.

YESTERDAY: Lorena talks to Rogers about applying modern detective methods, instead of armed forces, to tracking down the cattle rustlers.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

"I BEEN thinking a lot about what you said, Miss Lorena," Shot Rogers stated after supper. "I'd like to hear your ideas some more."
He had managed to get her off for a walk alone.

"You mean about what lovely things flowers are?" she asked, dimpling ever so little but pretending to be serious.

He got her point. "Now, Miss Lorena," he smiled genially, "don't you start diggin' at me, too! I can't whup you and you know it;
but maybe I ought to try, at that!"

She laughed gaily at him and dared him to try, and he made a motion of hitting at her a few times.

"I'll never hear the last of them —of those flowers, ma'am. You don't never want to make a man pick flowers for you like that. It gets him in bad."

"Did it get Jerry in bad, too, Shot?"

"Oh," he was serious now. "Well, you see he's different. He and the boys don't—well, it's different there."

Lorena thought she understood.
Also that she was treading on dangerous conversational ground. She changed the subject.

"What had you been thinking about, Shot? Seriously, I mean."

"About that detective work and all. Trailing Escobar. I figure that it would cost more than George Brazee can afford to keep up enough armed force to protect his stock. If Escobar's going to keep building up his army and keep raiding, and George can't very well call in the United States federal force. So maybe you're right.
Maybe we ought to match brains against him, and not so many guns.
Now me—I rely a lot on guns, and strength. I—well, too much, I reckon, Miss Lorena. I apologize f—"

She put her hand on his arm
then, halting him.

"Some men have to use strength, Shot." She spoke very earnestly, looking up at his face. "Society needs protectors. Don't feel—ashamed, or embarrassed. Just because you hit a man with your fist at a dance. That's it, I know. I don't hold that against you. I thought at first that you were being foolish, but I have been thinking a lot, too. I am—and I was then—secretly thrilled to have a man fight for me. Actually fight for me! And Shot—when are you going to begin calling me Lorena, without the 'Miss'?"

Young Rogers inhaled deeply, happily. Not in a long time had he received so much spiritual bounty in one short speech. The manner, the tone, as much as the actual words, were an exhilaration to him.
"I haven't dared," he almost whispered, speaking fervently.

"Don't be ill at ease," she went on gently. "You are unduly shy at times. Aunt Sally says so, too. Nobody likes a forward man but you needn't have fear of that. I want you to be good friends. I—well, I notice how you try to correct your speech, Shot, and how you have ideals and thoughts away above the average cowboy. You have good stuff in you. Uncle George trusts you a lot. He says you are a fine young man. I thought somebody ought to tell you these things!"

"My stars, Mi—Lorena!" His tone gave her thanks, even if his words fumbled them. He looked worshipfully at her, then turned away as if distrusting himself to look into her eyes any longer. He had already known she had the most beautiful eyes in the world;

he was afraid he might tell her so and that would spell disaster!

"My daddy taught me a lot of things about the outdoors," Lorena resumed their talk. "I have hunted long hours with him, and fished.
Most of the things were common sense. I can see how they apply out here in Arizona as well as in Kentucky. Daddy was well read, too.
He knew a lot about your state.
He used to long to visit here himself. I think that's why mother was so anxious for me to come."

"I'm sure proud you did," he told her. "What say we go back and talk about this private scouting business, this detective work, to George Brazee and them?"

"All right."

They found George and Sally Brazee and two friends of theirs,
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Anderson from the neighboring L Bar 9 ranch, inside by the lamplight. After greetings Shot Rogers broached the topic in his mind. The Andersons were deeply interested, too, having come to inquire of George about the trouble with raiding thieves.

The opinions, however, were mostly negative.

Nobody seemed to think that detective work could be applied against an enemy that used mostly force. Tradition in the southwest, especially along the border land, was that gun must be matched with gun, battle with battle, death with death.

"I don't mean," Mr. Brazee concluded his summation of it, "that I want to go out and kill, even Mexican crooks. I hated to have to haul those two poor devils in on Thursday, hated to know I had been a part in their death. Hated it aside from the legal details—we stole, and all that, you know. But folks, if Escobar's another typical revolutionist, then he's a bandit at heart and you know it. And the Mexican government knows it and would thank us to run him down.
Only we don't yet know where he hides out or how he gets my cows out of their valleys and escapes with them, or how he—"

"That's it," Shot put in. "That's just it. We don't know too much."
Lorena nodded, backing him.

But they still didn't see it that way. Only thing George would agree to was to stick by his bargain to let Shot have his own free rein in directing the fight on Escobar.

"Exactly!" she broke in. "His spies can see your armed riders leave the ranch and send back the news of where they are. Don't you imagine that's what he did Thursday, Shot?"

"Say! Maybe that's right. Maybe we ought to try to get someone, uh, inside information, so to speak, to know where we're at before we try to run him down by force."

She turned to face him then. She reached out suddenly and grasped both his arms at the elbows, holding him tight in the earnestness of her next words.

"Shot, let's try it! Let's go out and scout around—yep, and if I a woman rides out with a man, any spies wouldn't be suspicious — See? . . . Don't you see? . . . And I have cause to hate Escobar, remember. His men kidnapped me!
. . . I want to go, Shot. I want to try it. I could do it. I can ride and shoot. And I'm not afraid. I want to help Uncle George. Let's go out quietly and see if we can possibly learn anything!"

Simultaneously, then, each slipped an arm around the other as they stroled along and talked on and on.

PESSIMISM

IT is enough to make anyone low-spirited to read H. G. Wells prophesies for the human race in his new book. There is a barb in the very title. He calls it "The Fate of Homo Sapiens." Obviously he thinks we're not very sapient. In plain American, he would call us "saps."

Humanity, he says, "which began in a cave, will end in the disease-soaked ruins of a slum." Plainly he thinks modern man with all his scientific knowledge and technical skill, is rushing to destruction through militarism and bad economics.

Science and invention, he finds, have changed our environment but not our natures. The disruptive driving force of unemployed young men "probably will shatter human life altogether under the new conditions." Our present "mental organization" is unable to control the situation.

If there is hope anywhere, he thinks, it is in America. Here is a challenge for our nation to pull itself together and go forward with a constructive program, before our youth gets out of hand here as it has done in Germany and various other countries.

IF David Burpee of California has really created the "ideal American flower" it is at least as important as a lot of other things we fuss about.

The Creator usually takes a lot of time for such a job, but Mr. Burpee, a cousin of the late Luther Burbank, was in a hurry. The two have been intimates for nearly 30 years, and when Garner returned to his home a few weeks ago, Brumfield met him in San Antonio and drove him to Uvalde. The two men make frequent trips in Garner's old Model-T Ford, with a canoe lashed on top and the rear of the car piled high with rods, guns and cooking gear.

Garner always does the cooking, and is very proud of it. He claims he can make the best coffee and flap-jacks in Texas.

Brumfield is the only one who calls Garner "Johnny"—except Mrs. Garner, who does so only in private. When others are present she calls her husband "Mister Garner." Other Uvalde neighbors call him "John," while only his congressional friends say "Jack."

Brumfield knows little about politics and is not interested.* The two men talk chiefly about local affairs, neighbors, crops, fishing, hunting and business deals—particularly about their respective skill as anglers and huntsmen.

"Johnny is a fair cook," says Brumfield, "but not as good as he says he is. And he is a total loss as a shot. I'm the (Continued on Page Three)

Chatted with Oris Mallow whose silver fox and mink farm below Clarksburg is one of the most interesting I have seen. Oris now has 750 mink and scores of fox. No meat is fed to fox in the Summer, but the mink take plenty, 125 pounds a day. The fox are made sleek by special fox food produced by Ralston Purina.

Game Warden Francis came in and said he now is convinced that wall eye pike exist in Darby creek. Saw three big ones taken from the stream. Last year I told him they were there and he so reported to the state department, but the Columbus officials were skeptical. This Summer, during the hottest weather, they came from Columbus and found the temperature of Darby's water was 72. They admitted pike could live in the water. Now, they have proof and will plant wall eyes there. And the dams that prevent fish entering Darby from the river also may be blown out. That is good news.

There goes Bob Wilkinson, engineer at the Container Corp., who has a real fish story. The other night at 12:15 he tossed a baited line into the river and at 2 o'clock he lost that fish. Time after time during the hour and 45 minutes he had the fish near the shore, but never could land him. There was a slinger. And bass are in the river, too. Several have been caught there in the last few weeks.

Prevent Diphtheria With Immunization

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

EVERY YEAR, as the time for entering school approaches, it becomes the duty and the privilege of this column to advise of a common contagious disease of childhood, and to give its most conscientious advice to parents concerning immunization and protection against them.

This year we are particularly proud to do so because, in spite of the fact that we (I lamentably, perhaps, in the eyes of Dictators) are free from regimentation, the incidence of preventable diseases in this country is lower than it ever was. This is due not to orders from above, but from voluntary and intelligent co-operation among the whole population, and we are proud to contrast this record with that of a modern scientific totalitarian state.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The comparison centers on diphtheria. In 1938, in the Democracy of the United States, there were 473 deaths from diphtheria. In Germany there were 149,429 deaths from diphtheria.

More Instructive

The check on comparative incidence is even more instructive. In 1933 the United States had 861 deaths from diphtheria, while Germany had 77,340. In the six years of Hitler's regime the death rate from diphtheria has increased 100 per cent; in the United States in the same period it has decreased 100 per cent.

According to German language papers, the increase in Germany is due to: (1) unhygienic crowding of young people in youth movement camps, designed to show how impervious to disease Germans naturally are; (2) scanty public distribution of medicine and means of disease prevention; (3) exile of doctors, Jewish and non-Jewish.

How has North America (while I have not the exact statistics from Canada, I know that its record is essentially the same as the United States) been able to reduce its diphtheria mortality almost to the vanishing point? In 1938, 24 American

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

by OREN ARNOLD

SYNOPSIS

LORENA HAMILTON has come to Arizona to visit her uncle GEORGE BRAZEE, owner of Phantom ranch, whose leading cowboys are JERRY DALE, college-bred newcomer, who is fascinated by Lorena, and SHOT ROGERS, who finds himself in love with her.

YESTERDAY: Lorena talks to Rogers about applying modern detective methods, instead of armed forces, to tracking down the cattle rustlers.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

"I BEEN thinking a lot about what you said, Miss Lorena," Shot Rogers stated after supper. "I'd like to hear your ideas some more." He had managed to get her off for a walk alone.

"You mean about what lovely things flowers are?" she asked, dimpling ever so little but pretending to be serious.

He got her point. "Now, Miss Lorena," he smiled genially, "don't you start diggin' at me, too! I can't whup you and you know it; but maybe I ought to try, at that."

She laughed gaily at him and dared him to try, and he made a motion of hitting at her a few times.

"I'll never hear the last of them—of those flowers, ma'am. You don't never want to make a man pick flowers for you like that. It gets him in bad."

"Did it get Jerry in bad, too, Shot?"

"Oh," he was serious now. "Well, you see he's different. He and the boys don't—well, it's different there."

Lorena thought she understood. Also that she was treading on dangerous conversational ground. She changed the subject.

"What had you been thinking about, Shot? Seriously, I mean."

"About that detective work and all. Trailing Escobar. I figure that it would cost more than George Brazee can afford to keep up enough armed force to protect his stock, if Escobar's going to keep building up his army and keep raiding. And George can't very well call in the United States federal force. So maybe you're right. Maybe we ought to match brains against him, and not so many guns. Now me—I rely a lot on guns, and strength. I—well, too much, I reckon, Miss Lorena. I apologize f—"

She put her hand on his arm then, halting him.

"Some men have to use strength, Shot." She spoke very earnestly, looking up at his face. "Society needs protectors. Don't feel ashamed, or embarrassed. Just because you hit a man with your fist at a dance. That's it, I know. I don't hold that against you. I thought at first that you were being foolish, but I have been thinking a lot, too. I am—and I was then—secretly thrilled to have a man fight for me. Actually fight for me! And Shot—when are you going to begin calling me Lorena, without the 'Miss'?"

Young Rogers inhaled deeply, happily. Not in a long time had he received so much spiritual bounty from a woman. The manner, the tone, as much as the actual words, were an exhilaration to him.

"I haven't dared," he almost whispered, speaking fiercely.

"Don't be ill at ease," she went on gently. "You are unduly shy at times. Aunt Sally says so, too. Nobody likes a forward man but you needn't have fear of that. I want you to be good friends. I—well, I notice how you try to correct your speech, Shot, and how you have ideals and thoughts away above the average cowboy. You have good stuff in you. Uncle George trusts you a lot. He says you are a fine young man. I thought somebody ought to tell you these things."

"My stars, Mi—Lorena! His tone gave her thanks, even if his words fumbled them. He looked worshipfully at her, then turned

Today's Horoscope

The women of the household of one whose birthday is on this date should be protected throughout the next year. Older people will cause suffering, but to offset that, a stranger will bring them profit. The child born on this day will be fortunate in all things. His nature will be inspirational, good-natured and philosophical, and such a child will excel in business and financial affairs.

away as if distrusting himself to look into her eyes any longer. He had already known she had the most beautiful eyes in the world; he was afraid he might tell her so and that would spell disaster!

"My daddy taught me a lot of things about the outdoors," Lorena resumed their talk. "I have hunted long hours with him, and fished. Most of the things were common sense. I can see how they apply out here in Arizona as well as in Kentucky. Daddy was well read, too. He knew a lot about your state. He used to long to visit here himself. I think that's why mother was so anxious for me to come."

"I'm sure proud you did," he told her. "What say we go back and talk about this private scouting business, this detective work, to George Brazee and them?"

"All right."

They found George and Sally Brazee and two friends of theirs, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Anderson from the neighboring L Bar 9 ranch, inside by the lamp light. After greetings Shot Rogers broached the topic in his mind. The Andersons were deeply interested, too, having come to inquire of George about the trouble with raiding thieves.

The opinions, however, were mostly negative.

Nobody seemed to think that detective work could be applied against an enemy that used mostly force. Tradition in the southwest, especially along the border land, was that gun must be matched with gun, battle with battle, death with death.

"I don't mean," Mr. Brazee concluded his summation of it, "that I want to go out and kill, even Mexican crooks. I hated to have to haul those two poor devils in on Thursday, hated to know I had been a part in their death. Hated it aside from the legal details—we still got the formalities to complete, and all that, you know. But folks, if Escobar's another typical revolutionist, then he's a bandit at heart and you know it. And the Mexican government knows it and would thank us to run him down. Only we don't yet know where he hides out or how he gets my cows out of their valleys and escapes with them, or how he—"

"That's it," Shot put in. "That's just it. We don't know too much." Lorena nodded, backing him.

But they still didn't see it that way. Only thing George would agree to was to stick by his bar, gain to let Shot have his own free rein in directing the fight on Escobar.

"Shot, let's try it! Let's go out and scout around—you and I! If a woman rides out with a man, any spies wouldn't be suspicious . . . See? . . . Don't you see? . . . And I have cause to hate Escobar, remember. His men kidnapped me! . . . I want to go, Shot. I want to try it. I could do it. I can ride and shoot. And I'm not afraid. I want to help Uncle George. Let's go out quietly and see if we can possibly learn anything!"

Simultaneously, then, more like brother and sister, each slipped an arm around the other as they strolled along and talked on and on.

Sorosis Club Donates To Church and School

Women Of Village Make Plans For Benefit Party

Mrs. Archie Rawlinson and Mrs. John Seaburn were guests Monday when 21 members of the Sorosis club of Williamsport gathered at the home of Mrs. Jay Seaburn of that community for the August session. Mrs. Rawlinson was received as member during the business hour.

In the absence of Mrs. Harry McGhee, president, Mrs. Howard Nessell, vice president, presided during the business session. Miss Carolyn Bochard, secretary, gave her report for the month.

The club decided to donate $25 to the Methodist church, $10 to the Foreign Missionary society, and $15 to the Williamsport schools to help purchase a musical instrument for the band.

Plans for a benefit card party for Thursday, Sept. 7, were discussed. The party will be at Sulphur Springs Pavilion.

Mrs. S. B. Metzger was program leader, using the subject, "Outstanding Universities in the United States and Ohio." Before she gave her informal talk, the group joined in singing college songs.

Mrs. Metzger discussed the 40 universities in Ohio and told about the leading ones in the U. S. She told which were endowed schools, mentioned the denominational and state schools. Her talk contained much information concerning Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Ohio State, Capital, Oberlin and Miami.

In closing, she discussed the life and characterization of the college student of today. An interesting contest closed the entertainment.

Mrs. Charles Rose, Mrs. Edward Eschleisch and Miss Mary White assisted the hostess in serving refreshments during the social hour.

The club will meet Monday, Sept. 18, at the home of Mrs. Fred Tipton of Williamsport.

Sheely-Anderson Wedding

Miss Mary E. Anderson of near Clarksburg became the bride of Mr. Herman Sheely of Chillicothe Sunday at 3 p. m., the ceremony being performed in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Anderson, formerly of Pickaway township. The Rev. G. C. Reed read the nuptial service before an altar of ferns and palms, interspersed with tall baskets of gladioli, and lighted with two seven-branched cathedral candelabra.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Sheely of Frankfort.

Miss Maxine Carter played Lohengrin's wedding march as the bridal party entered the room, and the piano accompaniment for the nuptial music by Mr. Wendell Morrison and Mr. Pryor Timmons. "Because" was the solo number sang by Mr. Morrison, "Oh, Promise Me" and "At Dawning" being the duet arrangements sung by Mr. Timmons and Mr. Morrison.

Mrs. P. H. Woodard of Nelsonville, a sister of the bride, wearing aqua moire taffeta, served as bridesmaid. Her frock was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, full puffed sleeves and floorlength skirt. Her accessories were white and she carried a bouquet of roses.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding, a frock made with a lace bodice and full net skirt over peach satin. Her bouquet was of delicate pink rose buds, delphinium and baby breath. Silver slippers completed her costume.

Mrs. Anderson wore an afternoon dress of gray silk, while the bridegroom's mother wore blue lace.

Mr. Aubrey Sheely of Kingsport, Tenn., served as best man for his brother, Mr. Arthur Anderson, brother of the bride, was usher.

After a sojourn at Buckeye Lake, Mr. Sheely and his bride will be at home, Aug. 29, at 154 N. Sugar street, Chillicothe.

The bride wore for traveling a black suit with white and black accessories.

Mr. Sheely, who attended Frankfort high school, is now engaged in business in Chillicothe.

About 80 guests attended the wedding, those from a distance including Mr. and Mrs. Edward Preston, Greenfield; Mrs. Ida Lerch, Mrs. Erma Gehres, Miss Florence and Miss Ida Hoffman, and Miss Eleanor Dreisbach, Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, the Misses Mary and Nancy Anderson, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Anderson, Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs. John H. Dunlap, Sr., Williamsport; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Queen, Mrs. C. E. Gester, Miss Mildred Shasteen, Chillicothe; Mr. Joseph Tootle, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Mattack, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Godden, Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Lewis, Frankfort; Miss Bernice Price, Cambridge; Mr. Aubrey Sheely, Kingsport, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Sheely and Mrs. W. A. Roseboom, of

Ira Scothorn Honored

Ira M. Scothorn of Ashville was honored at a reunion Sunday at Scioto Valley grange hall, north of Ashville, when his former students gathered for a basket dinner and program. Approximately 200 were in attendance throughout the day, representing the five schools where Mr. Scothorn had taught.

These schools were Oak Grove, Hudson and Greenfield districts of Harrison township, and districts two and three of Walnut township. Oak Grove had the largest number of students present.

Following the dinner served at noon, an interesting program was presented, with Mr. Scothorn presiding. The song, "School Days", was sung with Mrs. H. W. Berger playing the piano accompaniment. The poem, "Forty Years Ago", was recited by Miss Jean Vause. Mrs. Ira Scothorn read letters from the following students who were unable to be present: Stanley Noice, Los Angeles, Cal.; William L. Cook, McCook, Neb.; and the Rev. H. C. Gunnett, Hebron. The guests responding with short talks giving reminiscences of school days and paying tribute to Mr. Scothorn were E. H. Gunnett, Samuel Gunnett, August Graumlich, Columbus; Dorsey Bumgarner, New Holland; John Heath, Marietta; Z. L. Graumlich, Reynoldsburg; Mrs. S. W. Graumlich, Miami, Fla.; Frank Hudson, Mrs. Grover Cline, Park Cook, Miss Nelle M. Oesterle and William Scothorn of Ashville.

The program closed with group singing of "Blest Be the Tie that Binds." A beautiful basket of flowers was presented Mr. Scothorn by Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Crites and Miss Doris Cook of Ashville.

Visiting and outdoor games were enjoyed after the program. Chairmen of the committees responsible for the successful event were Mrs. Charles Barch, tables; Miss Gladys Vause, reception; Mrs. Herbert Swayer and Mrs. Russell Reid, recreation; Mr. Scothorn, invitations; Mrs. Scothorn, registration, and Herbert Swayer, car parking.

Tour Of West
Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Wise of Stoutsville have just returned after a western tour of over 6,000 miles during which they passed through 15 states and three provinces in Canada. They traveled by rail, boat and bus.

Mr. and Mrs. Wise visited the Golden Gate Exposition at San Francisco during their trip.

Kern Reunion

James W. Kern, Chillicothe, was chosen president of the association Sunday when the Kern family reunion was held at Mound City Park, near Chillicothe. Noah E. List and Miss Margaret Steinhauer, Williamsport, were chosen vice president and secretary-treasurer respectively.

One hundred and four guests enjoyed the day of friendly visiting and the bountiful dinner served at noon.

Mrs. Theresa Kern of Chillicothe, who is 80 years old, was given a gift as the oldest member present and Carol Lynne Kern, four months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kern of Jackson township received the gift as the youngest guest.

Light refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon.

Rittinger-Jennings Reunion

The first reunion of the Rittinger-Jennings families was held Aug. 20 at Logan Elm Park, about 90 guests enjoying the day. A basket dinner was served at noon, and after a short business program, the afternoon was spent renewing acquaintances and in social visiting.

When officers were elected, Mrs. Lawrence Wright was chosen president; Miss Nell Jennings, vice president and Miss Myrtle Mae Roll, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Nell Rittinger, Clarence Rittinger, Mrs. John Dreisbach and George Roache will serve as a history committee. An entertainment committee was chosen with Miss Alice Jennings, chairman, and Mrs. Helen Strous and Mrs. Burton Hertenstein, co-helps.

Music was furnished by Austin Fuller and Paul Shields of Frankfort. Guests were present from Circleville, Kingston, Chillicothe and vicinity, Columbus and Huntington, Ind.

Stoutsville School Reunion
Forty-nine pupils of Stoutsville school for the years 1890-1903 registered Sunday when the annual reunion was held in the new school building. During the afternoon business meeting, the old officers were reelected including George Gearhart, president; Durban Crites, vice president, and Mrs. Walter Miesse, secretary-treasurer.

Luncheon was served in the basement at noon and a pleasant social hour followed.

The afternoon program which commenced at 2:15 was opened with prayer by the Rev. S. M. Wenrich and included a number of songs by the group and quartet selections by Frank Crites, Durban Crites, Mrs. Vance Courtwright and Mrs. Fred Nicholas. Readings by Durban Crites were followed by reminiscences by a number of former pupils. The group singing was led by Mrs. A. W. Marion of Celina.

The affair will be repeated next year with all pupils and teachers connected with the old school up to the year 1903 invited.

Bridge Club Meets
Mrs. Virgil M. Cress, Miss Charlotte Bell and Miss Evelyn Snider were guests Monday when Mrs. Earl Price entertained her bridge club in her home on Edison avenue.

Mrs. J. Wray Henry and Mrs. Cress received the score awards after the games of contract bridge in play at three tables.

Light refreshments were served by the hostess during the evening.

Mrs. C. G. Chalfin will be club hostess at the next session.

Birthday Party
Mrs. Willard Gaines and Mrs. Arthur Wilkin of Circleville were hosts at a family party Sunday honoring their husbands on their birthday anniversaries. The affair was at the Gaines home, Fairview avenue.

The home was decorated throughout with Summer flowers. Out-door games were enjoyed during the afternoon. Many gifts were received by the honor guests.

Dinner was served to Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Francis and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Gaines, Miss Helen Gaines, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Francis, and Arthur Francis, Adelphi; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gaines and family of Whisler; Mr. and Mrs. Otis Waliser, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Waliser, Brunelle, Frieda and Esther Waliser, and John Swatman of Saltcreek township; Mr. and Mrs. Grover Wilkin, Miss Marie Wilkin, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stonerock, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schlegler, Mr. Emma Dennis, Forrest Schlegler, Ronald Lee Gaines and Mrs. David Frazier.

Swoyer Reunion
The 38th annual reunion of the Swoyer (Schweyer) family was held Sunday at the Stoutsville campgrounds with 60 relatives in attendance.

The oldest person present was

Mrs. S. P. Baldoser, who is in her 91st year, and the youngest, her grandchild, Charles David, the eight-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baldoser of Pickaway township.

Mrs. W. A. Bowers of Ashville was elected president for the coming year, with John D. Hummel, Circleville, vice president; E. F. Strous of Kingston, secretary-treasurer; C. A. Swoyer of Columbus, historian, and Miss Kathryn E. Bowers, of Ashville, registrar.

The 1940 reunion will be the third Sunday in August in the same place.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Strous, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fraunfelder and son, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Hinton and children of Kingston; Mrs. Jennie Strous, and son, Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Strous, and son, and Miss Mary Mowery of Laurelville; Mr. Hummel, Mrs. S. P. Baldoser, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baldoser and family, Mrs. Loring List and son of the Circleville community; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bowers and daughter, Kathryn, Miss Jane Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Martin and children, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Martin and son, Mr. and Mrs. William Hoover and daughter of Ashville; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Swoyer, Mrs. Marie Schulliger and son of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller of Canal Winchester; Robert Strous, Adelphi; Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Stroup and children of Worthington.

Mrs. Fellers Hostess
Mrs. Roy Groce joined the players for the evening when Mrs. Charles Fellers of E. Main street was hostess to her bridge club.

When scores were added after the games, Miss Ann English, Mrs. Fred Donnelly and Miss Mary Howard received lovely gifts for scores. Mrs. W. E. Caskey won the traveling prize, and Mrs. Groce was remembered with a choice gift. Mrs. Fellers served refreshments after the games.

Crites Reunion
The Crites reunion will be held at Saltcreek school, Sunday, Aug. 27. It is requested that guests take basket dinners and table service.

Miss Maxine Carter played Lohengrin's wedding march as the bridal party entered the room, and the piano accompaniment for the nuptial music by Mr. Wendell Morrison and Mr. Pryor Timmons.

"Because" was the solo number sang by Mr. Morrison, "Oh, Promise Me" and "At Dawning" being the duet arrangements sung by Mr. Timmons and Mr. Morrison.

Mrs. P. H. Woodard of Nelsonville, a sister of the bride, wearing aqua moire taffeta, served as bridesmaid. Her frock was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, full puffed sleeves and floorlength skirt. Her accessories were white and she carried a bouquet of roses.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding, a frock made with a lace bodice and full net skirt over peach satin. Her bouquet was of delicate pink rose buds, delphinium and baby breath. Silver slippers completed her costume.

Mrs. Anderson wore an afternoon dress of gray silk, while the bridegroom's mother wore blue lace.

Mr. Aubrey Sheely of Kingsport, Tenn., served as best man for his brother. Mr. Arthur Anderson, brother of the bride, was usher.

After a sojourn at Buckeye Lake, Mr. Sheely and his bride will be at home, Aug. 29, at 154 N. Sugar street, Chillicothe.

The bride wore for traveling a black suit with white and black accessories.

Mr. Sheely, who attended Frankfort high school, is now engaged in business in Chillicothe.

Ira Scothorn Honored

Ira M. Scothorn of Ashville was honored at a reunion Sunday at Scioto Valley grange hall, north of Ashville, when his former students gathered for a basket dinner and program. Approximately 200 were in attendance throughout the day, representing the five schools where Mr. Scothorn had taught.

These schools were Oak Grove, Hudson and Greenfield districts of Harrison township, and districts two and three of Walnut township. Oak Grove had the largest number of students present.

Following the dinner served at noon, an interesting program was presented, with Mr. Scothorn presiding. The song, "School Days," was sung with Mrs. H. W. Berger playing the piano accompaniment. The poem, "Forty Years Ago," was recited by Miss Jean Vause. Mrs. Ira Scothorn read letters from the following students who were unable to be present: Stanley Noice, Los Angeles, Cal.; William L. Cook, McCook, Neb.; and the Rev. H. C. Gunnett, Hebron. The guests responding with short talks giving reminiscences of school days and paying tribute to Mr. Scothorn were E. H. Gunnett, Samuel Gunnett, August Graumlich, Columbus; Dorey Bumgarner, New Holland; John Heath, Marietta; Z. L. Graumlich, Reynoldsburg; Mrs. S. W. Graumlich, Miami, Fla.; Frank Hudson, Mrs. Grover Cline, Park Cook, Miss Nelle M. Oesterle and William Scothorn of Ashville.

The program closed with group singing of "Blest Be the Tie that Binds." A beautiful basket of flowers was presented Mr. Scothorn by Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Crites and Miss Doris Cook of Ashville.

Visiting and outdoor games were enjoyed after the program.

Chairmen of the committees responsible for the successful event were Mrs. Charles Barch, tables; Miss Gladys Vause, reception; Mrs. Herbert Swayer and Mrs. Russell Reid, recreation; Mr. Scothorn, invitations; Mrs. Scothorn, registration, and Herbert Swayer, car parking.

Tour Of West
Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Wise of Stoutsville have just returned after a western tour of over 6,000 miles during which they passed through 15 states and three provinces in Canada. They traveled by rail, boat and bus.

Mr. and Mrs. Wise visited the Golden Gate Exposition at San Francisco during their trip.

Kern Reunion
James W. Kern, Chillicothe, was chosen president of the association Sunday when the Kern family reunion was held at Mound City Park, near Chillicothe. Noah E. List and Miss Margaret Steinhauer, Williamsport, were chosen vice president and secretary-treasurer respectively.

One hundred and four guests enjoyed the day of friendly visiting and the bountiful dinner served at noon.

Mrs. Theresa Kern of Chillicothe, who is 80 years old, was given a gift as the oldest member present and Carol Lynne Kern, four months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kern of Jackson township received the gift as the youngest guest.

Light refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon.

Rittinger-Jennings Reunion

The first reunion of the Rittinger-Jennings families was held Aug. 20 at Logan Elm Park, about 90 guests enjoying the day. A basket dinner was served at noon, and after a short business program, the afternoon was spent renewing acquaintances and in social visiting.

When officers were elected, Mrs. Lawrence Wright was chosen president; Miss Nell Jennings, vice president and Miss Myrtle Mae Roll, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Nell Rittinger, Clarence Rittinger, Mrs. John Dreisbach and George Roache will serve as a history committee. An entertainment committee was chosen with Miss Alice Jennings, chairman, and Mrs. Helen Strous and Mrs. Burton Hertenstein, co-chairs.

Music was furnished by Austin Fuller and Paul Shields of Frankfort. Guests were present from Circleville, Kingston, Chillicothe and vicinity, Columbus and Huntington, Ind.

Stoutsville School Reunion

Forty-nine pupils of Stoutsville school for the years 1890-1903 registered Sunday when the annual reunion was held in the new school building. During the afternoon business meeting, the old officers were reelected including George Gearhart, president; Durban Crites, vice president, and Mrs. Walter Miesse, secretary-treasurer.

Luncheon was served in the basement at noon and a pleasant social hour followed.

The afternoon program which commenced at 2:15 was opened with prayer by the Rev. S. M. Wenrich and included a number of songs by the group and quartet selections by Frank Crites, Durban Crites, Mrs. Vance Courtwright and Mrs. Fred Nicholas. Readings by Durban Crites were followed by reminiscences by a number of former pupils. The group singing was led by Mrs. A. W. Marion of Celina.

The affair will be repeated next year with all pupils and teachers connected with the old school up to the year 1903 invited.

Bridge Club Meets

Mrs. Virgil M. Cress, Miss Charlotte Bell and Miss Evelyn Snider were guests Monday when Mrs. Earl Price entertained her bridge club in her home on Edison avenue.

Mrs. J. Wray Henry and Mrs. Cress received the score awards after the games of contract bridge in play at three tables.

Light refreshments were served by the hostess during the evening.

Mrs. C. G. Chalfin will be club hostess at the next session.

Birthday Party

Mrs. Willard Gaines and Mrs. Arthur Wilkin of Circleville were hosts at a family party Sunday honoring their husbands on their birthday anniversaries. The affair was at the Gaines home, Fairview avenue.

The home was decorated throughout with Summer flowers. Out-door games were enjoyed during the afternoon. Many gifts were received by the honor guests.

Dinner was served to Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Francis and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Gaines, Miss Helen Gaines, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Francis, and Arthur Francis, Adelphi; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gaines and family of Whisler; Mr. and Mrs. Otis Waliser, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Waliser, Brunelle, Frieda and Esther Waliser, and John Swatman of Saltcreek township; Mr. and Mrs. Grover Wilkin, Miss Marie Wilkin, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stonerock, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schlegler, Mrs. Emma Dennis, Forrest Schlegler, Ronald Lee Gaines and Mrs. David Frazier.

Swoyer Reunion

The 35th annual reunion of the Swoyer (Schweyer) family was held Sunday at the Stoutsville campgrounds with 60 relatives in attendance.

The oldest person present was

Mrs. S. P. Baldoser, who is in her 91st year, and the youngest, her grandchild, Charles David, the eight-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baldoser of Pickaway township.

Mrs. W. A. Bowers of Ashville was elected president for the coming year, with John D. Hummel, Circleville, vice president; E. F. Strous of Kingston, secretary-treasurer; C. A. Swoyer of Columbus, historian, and Miss Kathryn E. Bowers, of Ashville, registrar.

The 1940 reunion will be the third Sunday in August in the same place.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Strous, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fraumfelter and son, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Hinton, and children of Kingston; Mrs. Jennie Strous, and son, Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Strous, and son, and Miss Mary Mowery of Laurelville; Mr. Hummel, Mrs. S. P. Baldoser, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baldoser and family, Mrs. Loring List and son of the Circleville community; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bowers and daughter, Kathryn, Miss Jane Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Martin and children, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Marion and son, Mr. and Mrs. William Hoover and daughter of Ashville; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Swoyer, Mrs. Marie Schulliger and son of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller of Canal Winchester; Robert Strous, Adelphi; Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Stroup and children of Worthington.

Mrs. Fellers Hostess

Mrs. Roy Groce joined the players for the evening when Mrs. Charles Fellers of E. Main street was hostess to her bridge club.

When scores were added after the games, Miss Ann English, Mrs. Fred Donnelly and Miss Mary Howard received lovely gifts for scores. Mrs. W. E. Caskey won the traveling prize, and Mrs. Groce was remembered with a choice gift. Mrs. Fellers served refreshments after the games.

Crites Reunion
The Crites reunion will be held at Saltcreek school, Sunday, Aug. 27. It is requested that guests take basket dinners and table service.

Wilhelm Goering's Essener National Zeitung as saying of the Anglo-Polish treaty: "as in other important questions, the present week will bring a decision on this point, too."

(Reuters said this was a plain hint, echoed in political circles, that Germany's "trial mobilization" is making rapid progress.)

Note for Stalin

Reports from Salzburg said Von Ribbentrop was preparing to fly to Moscow with a small staff of experts—and was likely to carry a special message from Chancellor Hitler to Dictator Stalin.

German officialdom today is barely recovering from the joyful surprise of Der Fuehrer's lightning diplomatic move to counteract the "encircling" nations' activities.

First news of the pact, it was learned, even shocked the highest government officials, including cabinet ministers. While they realized that something was going on in that direction, they were entirely uninformed of Hitler's exact plans and possible decision.

In the absence of further official comment, the consensus among the public was that Hitler again had proved himself the shrewdest of politicians and cleverest of diplomats, in successfully taking the initiative anew in the gigantic diplomatic battle between the axis and so-called "peace front" powers.

It was generally foreseen that the British-French-Russian staff talks in Moscow would be broken up soon.

Germany was convinced further that Polish hopes of a solution of the Danzig problem in Poland's favor have been definitely frustrated, since it is not considered that the "peace front" would war on Germany without being able to fill the gap on the east by including the Soviets in their line-up.

It was assumed that the forthcoming German-Russian pact will include a provision for eliminating aggressive communist radio propaganda against the Reich and possibly against Italy.

Japan Situation Touched
Soviet-Japanese relations are also likely to be touched on during Ribbentrop's talks.

German morning newspapers triumphantly announced the Soviet pact in banner headlines. Apparently in order to show the British and French it would be hopeless to fight for Poland without Soviet assistance, some newspapers published two or more pages describing the invincibility of Germany's fortifications on the Rhine.

"That's what you are supposed to storm, Poland!" proclaims a headline in the Lokal-Anzeiger.

The foreign minister is due to come to Berlin from Salzburg tonight and arrive in Moscow at noon Wednesday.

He is being accompanied by Dr. Friedrich Gaus, treaty-drafting expert of the German foreign office.

SOVIET PLACED IN JUDAS ROLE BY STATESMEN

Pact Of Nazi-Russians Believed To Spell End Of Polish Power

be known until the terms of the German Russian agreement are made public.

The very least that the new non-aggression treaty between Germany and Russia could mean would be:

1—The failure, under the most ignominious circumstances, of the Anglo-French military mission to Moscow and the attempt to form an Anglo-French-Russian military alliance.

2—That thereby Germany is freed from the danger of war on two fronts, since Poland, without Russian help, could last, in allied opinion, only six weeks against the German army.

3—(Depending on the terms of the agreement) that Russia probably won't furnish even supplies to the Allies, including Poland, of that she will not only deny any aid to Germany's enemies, but will supply Germany.

Balance Upset

These changes in the European picture constitute an upset in the balance of power at least equal to that of September last year, and some of Europe's most experienced diplomats, including Americans, soberly observed today: it is worse than Munich—more far-reaching—and ultimately it will affect every living person on the globe.

Among the violent feelings initially expressed on all sides was intense revulsion against the Soviet Union, and terms as strong as "Judas nation" could be heard, particularly among persons who had advocated soliciting Russia as an ally.

It may prove untrue, but at first sight it appeared to many that the Kremlin deliberately led the Allies into sending a military mission to Moscow, in order to obtain their military secrets, only to be able, at the critical moment, to double-cross them.

Characteristically, the Poles took it most calmly, and with that typical confidence which their allies consider as possibly exaggerated, their spokesmen abroad declared it didn't matter.

One Polish diplomat told me: "There is nothing to get excited about; we never wanted Russia as an ally. If she has only agreed to stay neutral, that suits us splendidly."

JUDGE HENDERSON RULES IN LIGHT RATE ARGUMENT

A motion filed by the City of Circleville to require the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. to separately state and number its causes of action and to strike from the petition filed by the company in the domestic and commercial light rate controversy was overruled Tuesday by Judge Phil A. Henderson, of Logan.

The court contest was started in August, 1937, after petitions for a referendum on a light rate contract were circulated. Judge Henderson's decision covers technical points of law. To date, the court action has shown no definite progress.

SEEK SILVER CACHE

SHANGHAI—Search is being made in Szechwan, in far west China, for a hoard of 100,000,000 ounces of silver said to have been buried by Chang Hsienchun, notorious in Chinese history as a traitor. The work is being undertaken by a Chinese company which has promised to contribute four-fifths of any silver it recovered to China's war-chest.

ing to the capital aboard the U. S. S. Tuscaloosa from an ocean holiday, will renew his efforts to force congressional revision of neutrality legislation to permit this country to aid Britain and France, by methods "short of war," in their stand against Germany and Italy.

2. The Russo-German pact will crumble the Italo-Jap-Germany anti-comintern alliance, because a German pledge not to attack Russia would strip from Japan its benefits from the coalition, and give the Soviet free rein in combating Nippon's invasion of China.

3. The Russo-German agreement may indicate a schism between Hitler and Mussolini, arising possibly from Italian unwillingness to support Germany in a war for Danzig. Reports have reached the capital for nearly a year that Germany and Russia might combine "red and brown bolshevism" to control Europe, with Nazi industry and Soviet raw materials complementing each other.

4. Announcement of projected consummation of a Russo-German non-aggression pact was designed (a) by Germany to force softening of the French and British attitude toward the Danzig situation or (b) by Russia, as "pressure politics" to force France and Britain into an outright military alliance with the Soviets. Thus far, throughout the protracted French-Anglo-Soviet "peace front" negotiations, the democracies have declined to enter into such an agreement.

DAMAGE ACTION TRIAL BEGINS AS JURY IS PLACED

The trial of the damage action of Melvin McIntosh, 1132 S. Champion avenue, Columbus, against Harold and D. A. Marshall, Stoutsville Route 1, started in Common Pleas court Tuesday morning.

Mr. McIntosh asks $2,500 damages. D. A. Marshall, in a cross petition, seeks $200 damages. The suit resulted from an auto and truck collision last Sept. 1 on Route 56 near Circleville.

Wilhelm Goering's Essener National Zeitung is saying of the Anglo-Polish treaty: "as in other important questions, the present week will bring a decision on this point, too."

(Reuters said this was a plain hint, echoed in political circles, that Germany's "trial mobilization" is making rapid progress.)

Note for Stalin

Reports from Salzburg said Von Ribbentrop was preparing to fly to Moscow with a small staff of experts—and was likely to carry a special message from Chancellor Hitler to Dictator Stalin.

German officialdom today is barely recovering from the joyful surprise of Der Fuehrer's lightning diplomatic move to counteract the "encircling" nations' activities.

First news of the pact, it was learned, even shocked the highest government officials, including cabinet ministers. While they realized that something was going on in that direction, they were entirely uninformed of Hitler's exact plans and possible decision.

In the absence of further official comment, the consensus among the public was that Hitler again had proved himself the shrewdest of politicians and cleverest of diplomats, in successfully taking the initiative anew in the gigantic diplomatic battle between the axis and so-called "peace front" powers.

It was generally foreseen that the British-French-Russian staff talks in Moscow would be broken up soon.

Germany was convinced further that Polish hopes of a solution of the Danzig problem in Poland's favor have been definitely frustrated, since it is not considered that the "peace front" would war on Germany without being able to fill the gap on the east by including the Soviets in their line-up.

It was assumed that the forthcoming German-Russian pact will include a provision for eliminating aggressive communist radio propaganda against the Reich and possibly against Italy.

Jap Situation Touched

Soviet-Japanese relations are also likely to be touched on during Ribbentrop's talks.

German morning newspapers triumphantly announced the Soviet pact in banner headlines. Apparently in order to show the British and French it would be hopeless to fight for Poland without Soviet assistance, some newspapers published two or more pages describing the invincibility of Germany's fortifications on the Rhine.

"That's what you are supposed to storm, Poland!" proclaims a headline in the Lokal-Anzeiger.

The foreign minister is due to come to Berlin from Salzburg to night and arrive in Moscow at noon Wednesday.

He is being accompanied by Dr. Friedrich Gaus, treaty-drafting expert of the German foreign office.

Pact Of Nazi-Russians Believed To Spell End Of Polish Power

be known until the terms of the German Russian agreement are made public.

The very least that the new non-aggression treaty between Germany and Russia could mean would be:

1—The failure, under the most ignominious circumstances, of the Anglo-French military mission to Moscow and the attempt to form an Anglo-French-Russian military alliance.

2—That thereby Germany is freed from the danger of war on two fronts, since Poland, without Russian help, could last, in allied opinion, only six weeks against the German army.

3—(Depending on the terms of the agreement) that Russia probably won't furnish even supplies to the Allies, including Poland, of that she will not only deny any aid to Germany's enemies, but will supply Germany.

Balance Upset

These changes in the European picture constitute an upset in the balance of power at least equal to that of September last year, and some of Europe's most experienced diplomats, including Americans, soberly observed today: it is worse than Munich—more far-reaching—and ultimately it will affect every living person on the globe.

Among the violent feelings initially expressed on all sides was intense revulsion against the Soviet Union, and terms as strong as "Judas nation" could be heard, particularly among persons who had advocated soliciting Russia as an ally.

It may prove untrue, but at first sight it appeared to many that the Kremlin deliberately led the Allies into sending a military mission to Moscow, in order to obtain their military secrets, only to be able, at the critical moment, to double-cross them.

Characteristically, the Poles took it most calmly, and with that typical confidence which their allies consider as possibly exaggerated, their spokesmen abroad declared it didn't matter.

One Polish diplomat told me: "There is nothing to get excited about; we never wanted Russia as an ally. If she has only agreed to stay neutral, that suits us splendidly."

PARIS, Aug. 22 — German regulars are moving to potential fighting zones in the Reich, reports received in Paris stated today.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 22—Furloughs of Netherlands frontier guards and coast defense airmen were suddenly cancelled today as the nation prepared for a possible emergency.

JUDGE HENDERSON RULES IN LIGHT RATE ARGUMENT

A motion filed by the City of Circleville to require the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. to separately state and number its causes of action and to strike from the petition filed by the company in the domestic and commercial light rate controversy was overruled Tuesday by Judge Phil A. Henderson, of Logan.

The court contest was started in August, 1937, after petitions for a referendum on a light rate contract were circulated. Judge Henderson's decision covers technical points of law. To date, the court action has shown no definite progress.

SEEK SILVER CACHE

SHANGHAI — Search is being made in Szechwan, in far west China, for a hoard of 100,000,000 ounces of silver said to have been buried by Chang Hsienchun, notorious in Chinese history as a traitor. The work is being undertaken by a Chinese company which has promised to contribute four-fifths of any silver it recovered to China's war-chest.

TEACHER RESIGNS

Miss Elaine Harshbarger, of Jackson, has resigned as vocational home economics teacher at Perry township school to accept a teacher position in Jackson, the county school department announced Tuesday. The position will be filled at once by the township board of education.

ing to the capital aboard the U. S. S. Tuscaloosa from an ocean holiday, will renew his efforts to force congressional revision of neutrality legislation to permit this country to aid Britain and France, by methods "short of war," in their stand against Germany and Italy.

2. The Russo-German pact will crumble the Italo-Jap-Germany anti-comintern alliance, because a German pledge not to attack Russia would strip from Japan its benefits from the coalition, and give the Soviet free rein in combating Nippon's invasion of China.

3. The Russo-German agreement may indicate a schism between Hitler and Mussolini, arising possibly from Italian unwillingness to support Germany in a war for Danzig. Reports have reached the capital for nearly a year that Germany and Russia might combine "red and brown bolshevism" to control Europe, with Nazi industry and Soviet raw materials complementing each other.

4. Announcement of projected consummation of a Russo-German non-aggression pact was designed (a) by Germany to force softening of the French and British attitude toward the Danzig situation or (b) by Russia, as "pressure politics" to force France and Britain into an outright military alliance with the Soviets. Thus far, throughout the protracted French-Anglo-Soviet "peace front" negotiations, the democracies have declined to enter into such an agreement.

After the many gift packages were opened by the bride, who was formerly Marguerite Fohl, contract bridge was played. Mrs. E. W. Weller, Miss Elizabeth Tolbert and Mrs. Sterling Lamb received the awards when scores were added at the close of the evening.

Those invited to the lovely party were Mrs. Dwight Weller, Mrs. E. W. Weller, Mrs. Paul Helwagen, Mrs. Franklin Kibler, Mrs. Carl Wallace, Mrs. James Adams, Mrs. Sterling Lamb, Mrs. Emmett Crist, Mrs. Bishop Hill, Mrs. Everett Stocklin, Mrs. W. DAMAGE ACTION TRIAL BEGINS AS JURY IS PLACED

The trial of the damage action of Melvin McIntosh, 1132 S. Champion avenue, Columbus, against Harold and D. A. Marshall, Stoutsville Route 1, started in Common Pleas court Tuesday morning.

Mr. McIntosh asks $2,500 damages. D. A. Marshall, in a cross petition, seeks $200 damages. The suit resulted from an auto and truck collision last Sept. 1 on Route 56 near Circleville.

The jury was taken to view the scene of the accident. Four witnesses had reported Tuesday for the plaintiff. No witnesses have been subpoenaed for the defendant.

Bride Guest At Monday Dinner Fete

One of the most delightful of the many parties arranged by Circleville hostesses for the Summer brides of the community was the dinner and miscellaneous shower Monday evening, when Mrs. Dwight Weller of N. Pickaway street was honored by Miss Hazel Palm of N. Court street at Sylvia's party home.

Vases of lovely rosebuds centered the seven tables where the dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock, tiny umbrellas favors adding a colorful touch to the party appointments.

After the many gift packages were opened by the bride, who was formerly Marguerite Fohl, contract bridge was played. Mrs. E. W. Weller, Miss Elizabeth Tolbert and Mrs. Sterling Lamb received the awards when scores were added at the close of the evening.

Those invited to the lovely party were Mrs. Dwight Weller, Mrs. E. W. Weller, Mrs. Paul Helwagen, Mrs. Franklin Kibler, Mrs. Carl Wallace, Mrs. James Adams, Mrs. Sterling Lamb, Mrs. Emmett Crist, Mrs. Bishop Hill, Mrs. Everett Stocklin, Mrs. W. FARM NEWS

Brief Items of Interest to Pickaway Farmers

Winter rains are little less efficient than their Summer cousins in stealing soil if it is left unprotected by cover crops and is not frozen.

People who used to restrain their appetite for turkeys until the holiday season can now find turkey almost daily on the menus of the larger restaurants and hotels.

Except for the period 1931-34, July farm prices in Ohio averaged the lowest in any year since 1911. Except for 1931-32, Ohio July prices for wheat and corn were the lowest for that month of any July since records were begun in 1908.

Ohio appears to be the ideal state for agricultural celebrations. The national corn husking contest held in Licking county set an all-time attendance record, the national dairy show had two of its most successful seasons at Columbus, and the World's Poultry Congress at Cleveland attracted more than 800,000 people in 10 days.

Rural economists at Ohio State University point out that failure to keep hog production in line with market demands can bring a price situation similar to the one in 1932-33 or can cause a drastic liquidation of hogs such as occurred in 1934 when drought curtailed production of grain crops.

A new enrollment record for Ohio 4-H clubs is predicted this year. Tabulations in the state office show a project enrollment of 61,413 in 3,864 clubs in 87 counties. The clubs are directed by 5,909 Ohio men and women who perform this community service without pay. Some club members have more than one project but it is almost certain that individual memberships will exceed last year's total of 56,641.

LIBERTY BELL RELIC
PHILADELPHIA — Richard Parker Tustin today possesses a piece of the original Liberty Bell, used in 1776 to announce signing of the Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia. Along with a collection of coins Tustin was bequeathed some shavings from the cracked bell in the will of his father, Christopher B. Tustin, of Philadelphia.

Ohio State Fair Promises To Be Great Occasion

COLUMBUS, Aug. 22 — All roads, even the air lanes, will point toward Columbus between Aug. 26 and Sept. 1, inclusive, for the 89th year in which Ohio's mammoth agricultural-industrial exposition, the Ohio State Fair, will be presented to thousands of persons from this and sister commonwealths.

Elaborate plans are rapidly taking form under the supervision of Win H. Kinnan, state fair manager and B. P. Sandles, manager of the junior fair, to make this the greatest fair that has ever been attempted in the Buckeye state and from the number of entries that are on file it exceeds even the fondest expectations of fair officials.

With the grand opening still a week in the offing the grounds are a bee-hive of activity with workmen rushing to completion the task of putting everything in readiness for exhibitors who will come here from all of the 48 states and the Dominion of Canada.

Saturday, the opening day of the fair, will again be given over to the youth of the state, having been appropriately designated as "School Bus Drivers" and "Rural Youth Day." On this occasion all school bus drivers, carrying children from their respective communities, will be guests of the management, but will have to pay to enter the grounds.

Judging Starts Soon

Shortly after the initial curtain is rung up, judging will get under way in the Junior Fair divisions, permitting much of this work to be accomplished over the weekend, thus permitting the youngsters to later appear in the open class competition against their elders.

In the evening special programs are to be presented both in front of the Grandstand and in the Coliseum, Gus Sun's "Let's Go 1940," holding the spotlight in the outdoor show and the Boone County Jamboree, providing the amusement in the Coliseum.

Because of the heavy demand for tickets for this latter show, two performances have been scheduled, the first getting under way at 7:00 p. m., and the other at 9:00 p. m. Between 9:30 and 10:30 p. m., this show will be broadcast through the facilities of station WLW Cincinnati.

Ordinarily this program is allotted only half an hour on the air on Saturday night, but broadcasting studio has made provision for the additional time as an accommodation to their fair officials. Special prices will be in effect also on this day. A 25 cent admission fee being levied at all entrance gates. A similar charge will be made for entrance to both the Coliseum and grandstand for children and 50 cents for adults.

A like admission charge will be in effect on Sunday, but admissions will be increased to 50 cents during the remainder of the exposition. Popular prices also will prevail in both the night attractions.

All Space Loaded

Every available space on the grounds will be loaded to capacity with hundreds of exhibits, concession stands, amusements and the like. Throughout the week, the grounds will assume a carnival-like atmosphere, gaily bedecked in bunting, crepe paper and varicolored lights.

This year's exposition is a combination of virtually everything that is produced in a great state, including agriculture, industry, education, science, art and the home. Ohio long since, has acquired a reputation for presenting the most comprehensive exposition to be offered in the western hemisphere, but this year is destined to dwarf everything that has been accomplished in the past.

Some idea of the interest that is being manifest in the Junior Fair might be gleaned from the fact that when it was founded 11 years ago, it attracted a mere handful of entrants — 341 to be exact—while in excess of 30,000 have been filed for this year's competition. In some departments entries are being reserved for 1940 by exhibitors who could not be accommodated this year.

This year premiums, purses and prizes valued at approximately $135,000 will be awarded to exhibitors. Of this total $113,723 is offered by the state, the remainder being contributed by outside sources. A total of $20,500 is offered exclusively in the Junior Fair divisions.

Purses totaling $9,500 have been posted for the eight closed events in the speed program, which will be presented each afternoon on the half-mile dirt track for harness racing, opening Monday and continuing through Friday. Highlights of this feature is the Governor's Cup race scheduled for Thursday and the Director of Agriculture trophy, which will take the horses to the starting line on Wednesday. This program will bring to Columbus some of the country's outstanding horses, drivers, and trainers.

In addition to the time honored displays of superior livestock, horses, cattle, sheep, swine, poultry, agricultural products and machinery, numerous other features are to be provided visitors. Cattle entries have already set an all-time record.

Midway Busy

On the midway will be heard the cry of barkers and concessionaires. There will be a steady rumble of machinery propelling rides and amusement devices. This will be augmented by the roar of farm machinery which will be kept in action to acquaint the farmer with the latest trend in equipment for handling his crops. To attempt to set down in words the numerous things that will attract visitors this year would require the compilation of a large volume. Suffice it to say that to say that to see the fair is to receive a liberal education and at the same time spend a day away from the grind of every-day existence.

Standard Bearer Meeting

The August meeting of the Standard Bearer society was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Wanda Arnold.

The meeting was called to order by the president Miss Elaine McQuay. The minutes of the previous meeting and the roll call were read by the secretary, Miss Betty Stewart. Miss Wanda Arnold reported a good amount in the treasury.

Election of the officers for the ensuing year followed. Miss Betty Stewart, president; Miss Martha French, vice president; Miss Harriette Hays, recording secretary; Miss Jenny Margaret Skinner, corresponding secretary; Miss Joan Griffith, treasurer.

It was decided to ask Mrs. Adah Costlow to be the new leader in place of Miss Virginia Terrell, who has resigned her teaching position here.

The devotions were conducted by Miss Virginia Terrell and the lesson by Miss Harriette Hays.

The hostess served dainty refreshments to Miss Elaine McQuay, Kathryn Satchell, Betty Stewart,

Having added to her radio duties as singing mistress of ceremonies of the evening "Kate Smith Hour," which resumes October 6, Miss Smith has received an enthusiastic response to her broadcasts of the day's events and of personal experiences and anecdotes.

ALEC TEMPLETON

Alec Templeton will feature his impression of an Englishman playing Cole Porter's "Begin the Beguine," and of Fats Waller, the speed king of the ivories, playing, and singing "Rigoletto," on the Templeton program tonight at 8:30. Templeton will also do "Mala-guena," and his "swingphony" will be a rendition of "I've Got Rhythm." Edna O'Dell will sing "To You," and "Go Fly A Kite." Billy Mills' orchestra will play a medley of Vincent Youman tunes, including such remembered favorites as "Great Day," "Sometimes I'm Happy," and "Flying Down to Rio."

BERT LAHR VISITS

Comedian Bert Laehr, who portrays the cowardly lion in the movie "The Wizard of Oz," will tangle Thursday, August 24, with Bob Burns whose own lyn' is a feature each week's broadcast. To lend an air of veracity to the program George E. Stone, veteran actor and Mischa and Sandra Levitsky, concert pianists will also be called upon to display their talents over the NBC red network at 7:30 p. m., along with the regulars, Pat Friday, the Music Mads, and John Scott Trotter's orchestra.

KATE SMITH

Kate Smith, long heralded as radio's most beloved personality as well as "The Songbird of the South," will resume her role of noonday commentator on Oct. 9 over the Columbia Broadcasting System from 12:00 to 12:15 p. m. Having added to her radio duties as singing mistress of ceremonies of the evening "Kate Smith Hour," which resumes October 6, Miss Smith has received an enthusiastic response to her broadcasts of the day's events and of personal experiences and anecdotes.

ALEC TEMPLETON

Alec Templeton will feature his impression of an Englishman playing Cole Porter's "Begin the Beguine," and of Fats Waller, the speed king of the ivories, playing, and singing "Rigoletto," on the Templeton program tonight at 8:30. Templeton will also do "Mala-guena," and his "swingphony" will be a rendition of "I've Got Rhythm." Edna O'Dell will sing "To You," and "Go Fly A Kite." Billy Mills' orchestra will play a medley of Vincent Youman tunes, including such remembered favorites as "Great Day," "Sometimes I'm Happy," and "Flying Down to Rio."

DIET NOTE

OKLAHOMA CITY—A year as president of the International Kiwanis Club taught H. G. Hatfield, of Oklahoma City, how to survive daily banquets and luncheons. "I soon learned that you couldn't eat day in and out at banquets and luncheons and live," he said. So I'd always get something like oatmeal or soft boiled eggs ahead of time and then just mince over the club meal."

GENERAL ALARM SPREAD THROUGH CENTRAL OHIO FOR FLEEING CONVICTS

FOUR, INCLUDING MURDERER, GONE FROM PEN FARM

Highway Patrol Asks All Authorities To Watch For Prisoners

CHECK REVEALS ESCAPE

Slayer of Medina County Policeman Listed As One Of Fugitives

A general alarm was sounded Monday night by the state highway patrol to Central Ohio law enforcement officers to be on the lookout for four London prison farm inmates who participated in the third break from the institution in less than a month.

The patrol and numerous Central Ohio city and county authorities watched highways in an effort to find the fugitives, but so far the hunt has been unsuccessful. Deputies in the office of Sheriff Charles Radcliff said they had heard the warning concerning the break. Although they did not conduct a road check, they were keeping a careful watch on main thoroughfares.

Acting Superintendent T. C. Price at the farm said the four convicts, including a convicted policeman slayer and a bank robber, were missing at an 8:30 p. m. checkup after a prison baseball game. No trace of them or how they escaped could be found, Price declared.

Those in the escape were identified by prison records as Claude Blood, 37, convicted of the slaying of a Medina County peace officer; Raymond McMahon, 23, sentenced for bank robbery from Hancock county in 1935; Riley Lipps, 25, sentenced from Washington county for breaking and entering, and Frank Gearhart, Toledo, convicted of larceny.

In Honor Camp
The quartet was housed in an honor camp, Price said. He pointed out that convicts with good behavior records are placed together in a dormitory wing with less stringent rules than in other quarters.

Blood was serving a life sentence for the murder of Way Knatt, a peace officer, during a robbery of a store at Lodi. He was admitted in 1919.

Two other prisoners who escaped Aug. 5 are still at large. Their escape followed by three days that of four men, including Louis Vandervort, Wilmington police slayer. The four were recaptured.

Meanwhile, State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood indicated he might go to London to investigate conditions at the prison farm. Sherwood was reported recently to have told Superintendent Thomas C. Jenkins "to clean up conditions" at the farm or face ouster. Jenkins has been ill with a heart ailment.

POLICE OF TWO STATES HUNT STATION MANAGER

COLUMBUS, Aug. 22—Police in Ohio and Indiana today were asked to search for Ora Carl, 24-year-old filling station operator, who mysteriously disappeared from his station early yesterday. State highway patrolmen said the station, located just outside of the Columbus city limits had been ransacked and expressed fear Carl might have been the victim of "foul play." Several articles and $44.85 in money were missing from the station.

Workers who wish to know the amount of wages credited to their old age insurance accounts up to Jan. 1, 1939, may obtain this information for the asking.

A representative of the Social Security board will visit the Circleville postoffice next Thursday, from 12 noon until 2 p. m. Posting of the 1938 wages reported for employees covered by old age insurance has been completed, making the record for earnings for the years 1937 and 1938 available.

C. C. Darby, manager of the Social Security Board field office in Columbus, said, "The worker has a right to obtain a report showing the status of his account."

"The great majority of requests for wage statements appear to have been based on the applicant's doubt that his employer has fully or accurately reported the worker's wages. In most cases, examination of the records has shown the worker has no cause for worry. In some cases wage account showed a disagreement between wages as reported and those actually received.
